$200,000 Bail Set for Extortion Suspect

By HUGH REYNOLDS

MANHATTAN Joseph Landisi, 49, a Beacon shoe store owner, is being held in lieu of $200,000 bail in the Federal Detention Headquarters here, following his arraignment Wednesday afternoon on charges of attempting to extort $350,000 from the Cunard Line and $300,000 from American Air Lines with bomb threats.

Landisi was arrested at the shoe store he owns at 331 Main Street in Beacon by FBI agents Wednesday morning and charged with violation of the Hobbs Act, a United States Attorney in Manhattan explained to The Freeman that the Hobbs Act prohibits "interfering with commerce by means of threat and extortion."

The Landisi story began, experts according to federal officials, on British liner in mid-Atlantic, but

May 17 when he allegedly sent an unsigned letter to Charles Dickson, vice president of the Cunard Line, stating that bombs had been planted on the Queen Elizabeth 2 and that they would be detonated unless the firm paid him $350,000.

The 65,000-ton ship, carrying 1,500 passengers, was stopped in water about 500 miles off the Azores while a thorough search was made. The caller to Cunard's office in New York City (allegedly Landisi) had warned that bombs would be set off by two men on board, claiming that one was a terminal cancer patient, the other an ex-convict and that both were willing to die to carry out the threat.

British Army bomb disposal Then, on June 16, American found no explosives.

Dickson, in the letter of May 17 was instructed to take the money to a telephone booth in New Paltz and await further instructions. He was then instructed to proceed to the Springtown Road and drop the money off at a previously erected sign (allegedly by Landisi). There was no pickup.

On May 25, Dickson received another letter, instructing him to proceed to Beacon with the money. There was no pickup. Another letter was received by Dickson on June 1, instructing him to return to the same locale in Beacon. Again, no pickup. All those letters to Cunard, federal authorities said, were unsigned.

Then, on June 16, American

air line terminals and office at about 1:30 a.m. Landisi offered no resistance when arrested, federal officials second letter was sent on June 20 what was supposed to be the $300,000 ransom from the Landisi, charged with where Landisi is expected to 20 instructing American Air line the $300,000 ransom package, violation of the Hobbs Act, faces plea for a reduction in the with the money on Wednesday. The money had been delivered up to 20 years in prison if $200,000 bail. Bail may be for a dropoff behind the Beacon there at about 9:30 p.m., convicted. Federal officials said reduced, a federal official said, Post Office, only about three Tuesday night. Landisi was today that he may also be but added, "we don't think he'll block's from Landisi's store. arrested when he opened his charged with attempted ex be back on the street."

'Don't Believe It'... Beacon Neighbors

By TIM SCHUSTER

BEACON "Eek! It's him! It's him!" shrieked two teenaged girls in mock alarm Wednesday afternoon as I surveyed the scene of the "pickup" that had netted the FBI Joseph Landisi at 2 o'clock that morning.

The City of Beacon was gradually becoming aware that one of its respected businessmen had been implicated in mystery of interlateral import. The Main Street shoe store had not opened up for business Wednesday morning, and the local newspaper was stuck in the door handle at 331 Main, lights were off inside, and the other businessmen and women on this relatively prosperous-looking strip of downtown Beacon were shaking their heads and saying, "I don't believe it."

"Joseph's Bootery, Fine Footwear," proclaimed the black and white storefront sign. But business along this stretch had been "lousy," according to one gift shop proprietor. Many of the local businessmen had blamed the poor business of late on the massive urban renewal program, which had the street closed to traffic for the best part of a year. It just recently reopened, and the newly poured sidewalks and sparkling lighting fixture were in stark contrast to the poorer section of the city down toward the Hudson River.

One man said he had talked with Landisi often, and the subject of the misfortune of business had come up more than once. Joseph's Bootery had no employees other than Joseph and his wife.

Jack Zodikoff, proprietor of Jay-Ann, a women's clothing store across the street, commented that he visited Landisi

"almost every afternoon. We talked a lot about the Navy; his 25-year-old son had just gotten out a year ago, and I think Joe was a Navy veteran."

Zodikoff noticed several Beacon police around the Bootery door Wednesday morning and asked a lieutenant what was going on. "Nothing," was the reply. He and most of the other people in the area did not know of Landisi's arrest until the afternoon.

Milton Darrow, Darrow Brothers Clothing Stores, concurred that business had been slow for quite a while. "Landisi always seemed to be a real nice guy," he mused, adding, "but I've got problems of my own."

Beacon Chief of Police Warren A. Hughes is a tall, silver-haired, gravelly voiced man who smiled often.

Three of Hughes' men were on the scene behind the post office on Main Street at 2 a.m. when the arrest was made. They identified Landisi before they picked up the package, allegedly containing $300,000 in payoff loot.

There had been several pickups arranged that never materialized, starting with one in New Paltz and culminating in a few in the mid-town section of Beacon within the past few weeks. The subject never showed.

"It was very frustrating," commented Chief Hughes, noting that no one had any idea of who the letter-writer might be until police watched Landisi carry off the package and attempt to hide it. "He was always very friendly with the police on the beat," said Hughes.

The Landisi home, at 7 Henry Street, is located about a half block from the post office and a half block from the Bootery.

It is a two-story, modest grey single house with air conditioners in the windows and two cars in the driveway. The suspect is married and has two children.

Area Burglaries Nearing Epidemic State

EDITOR'S NOTE In the face of the recent rash of burglaries throughout the City of Kingston and the surrounding Ulster County area, The Freeman presents a two-part series on this most serious problem.

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Burglaries in the City of Kingston and other sections of Ulster County are close to—or in—the epidemic state at present.

Business people in the area, particularly in this city and the Town of Ulster are alarmed over the increase in the number of burglaries that have reaped a high figure in cash in recent weeks.

State and city police officials while admitting burglaries are on the increase contend that there is no definite indication at present that a burglary ring is lurking around in this area. But these same officials have not denied that possibility.

Officials say that all police agencies are coordinating their efforts and skills and constantly keeping in communication with each other in a move to combat the outbreak of breakins, most of which investigators claim are committed between 3 a.m. and daybreak.

Weekends appear to be prime time when the burglars prey upon business establishments. For instance, Kingston detectives reported six burglaries last weekend, four of which were business places. The others were at a parochial school and a musicians hall.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman of the Hurley State Police headquarters reported BCI officers were probing into six business establishment burglaries along Albany Avenue extension in the Town of Ulster.

"Cash is what they are looking for," Lisman said as he noted that in most places raided by the burglars, money makes up the loot.

Special

Cash was the only item taken in four of the city's weekend breakins, according to Detective Lieutenant Charles McCullough, who concurred with Investigator Lisman that "if we can dry up the means of obtaining money by easy disposal of items stolen, then there should be a decided drop off in burglaries."

A large number of the burglaries are committed by thieves who are looking for money, which many of them need to satisfy their drug habits, authorities contend.

Investigations have disclosed that in many instances the intruders of business places—and a few homes—in the city and county communities steal items of value that they can readily dispose of as hand items and places and shops for cash.

Police officials note that Kingston, the Town of Ulster and other Ulster County communities are not the only areas hit by burglars. Burglaries are prevalent in several Dutchess County sections, particularly in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Investigator Lisman pointed out in discussing the current wave of burglaries that the business machines, such as pinball, soda, pool, cigarette and other vending equipment are targets for the intruders who appear to be content with the loot from the coin boxes and cash registers.

A police official noted that in recent area tavern entries by thieves, no liquor or other merchandise was taken. Expensive tools, guns and other items that can be disposed of quickly through sale for cash, also have been reported missing from some business places after breakins.

Lisman said that BCI investigators of Troop F, assigned to stations in this immediate area, are pressing investigation of six weekend burglaries in the Town of Ulster and Saugerties. The senior state police officer identified four places entered in Ulster township as The Kingston Music Center, the Avis Garage, Amerling Inc. (an automobile agency) and Whitman Electric, Inc., (an electrical contractor, all on Albany Avenue Extension. The Country Inn in Saugerties, also was entered. The sixth place was not identified.

According to Lisman, the loot in each place consisted of cash.

Chief Sergeant Donald Policastro of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, in commenting on the burglary wave, said few complaints of breakins have been reported to his office in recent weeks. He explained that some time ago he instituted a special burglary patrol of two cars manned by two men each, whose assignment it is to make frequent checks at different hours of shopping centers from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m., seven days a week.

The special detail, Policastro said, operates in addition to the regular sheriff's patrols, that cover outlying business districts throughout the county.

NEXT: Area businessmen's association officials discuss the recent widespread burglary problem and offer, what they consider to be, solutions to it.

Summer Rains Pelt State, A Flood Warning in Area

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON The threat of flash floods still hangs over the Mid-Hudson area as the remains of Hurricane Agnes move slowly up the East Coast.

Although Wednesday was the first day of summer, it was nothing but "liquid sunshine" that drenched Ulster County. The entire month of June to date has been a washout with more than four inches of rain interspersed with humid overcast days on end. The huge rainstorm that struck Florida Monday as the season's first hurricane has claimed at least 23 lives in sweeping through Cuba and up the Eastern Seaboard.

The storm course is expected pressway project. State police said the earthen bank in danger of given way was holding back one and a half mile stretch of water, 20 to 25 feet deep.

Although Hurricane Agnes is described as on the wane, she has left a swath of floods and death in her path. The huge rainstorm that struck Florida Monday as the season's first hurricane has claimed at least 23 lives in sweeping through Cuba and up the Eastern Seaboard.

The storm course is expected to be over New York City late today. Locally, as elsewhere in the northeast, gusty winds and heavy rains are expected to continue through tonight.

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Kingston Board of Public Works, said today that the storm situation is expected to peak at Kingston Point will be at 11:55 p.m. which could compound the flood problems along the Rondout Creek.

Flash flood advisories were issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau Wednesday as a precautionary measure. Cole had emergency crews on patrol through 10 p.m. last night.

Justice Cooke Still Holds Third

KINGSTON M. Henry Martuscello, Brooklyn, is the apparent fourth place runner and the loser with 301,317 votes.

In Ulster County, with only partial returns in, Cooke is leading with 1,014. Dembitz is running second with 878; Meyer, third with 850 and Martuscello last with 686.

Complete returns are expected by Friday.

Meanwhile, Ulster County elected Orange County GOP Chairman William E. Doulin a delegate to the Republican National Convention and so did the entire 26th Congressional District in Tuesday's primary but Doulin's own county of Orange turned him down and now his resignation is being called for by those who oppose him.

Former Orange County Assistant District Attorney Anthony M. Mauriello, Doulin's main challenger and the loser in the three-way race said, "Doulin should resign now and let the county committee elect a new chairman." He suggested that Doulin had lost his right to the chairmanship because, "I beat him in Orange County."

But, Doulin who polled 16,572 votes to Mauriello's 16,026, said he plans to stay in his post. Dr. Carmine Freda, Rockland County GOP chairman won the other delegate seat with 16,280 votes.

Among the defendants are the 26 attorneys general as individuals, in their official capacities and as a class, and the state of Vermont and the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

The Northeast regional offices of Koskot Interplanetary and Dare to be Great, two subsidiaries of the vast Turner empire, were moved to the Granit Hotel in Accord in December, 1971 after Turner was prohibited from doing business in Massachusetts. ## Ellenville Housing Plans to Continue

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE Despite the opposition of the majority of the Ellenville Village Board, the Ellenville Housing Authority, according to its head, is going to continue with its plans to build a low-income housing project on the Eaton Court site in the village.

A spokesman for the homeowners in the area of the site, Ben Miller, said the homeowners and those others opposed to the site would take the authority to court to block the project.

Gordon Kent, head of the authority, said Wednesday his group felt "it is the right project in the right place," and would continue with the site.

The site has been approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which has allocated the funds for the turnkey project of 40 low-income apartments, upon the authority's recommendation.

The announcement that the low-income apartments would be located on the Eaton Court site set off a storm of protest, and the village board received a petition protesting the site with about 75 signatures. The site is located off Maple Avenue, quiet and tree-shaded, and one of the most attractive streets in Ellenville.

Kent said his authority was not much impressed by the petition, as some of the signatories were from out of town, some did not live in the immediate area, and some had a financial connection with other proposed housing sites.

Mayor Robert Dowling, however, said the petition was not to be "discounted." He noted that an apartment complex proposed in the Siegel Drive area had been turned down after being strongly opposed by the area's residents several months ago, and felt the present situation to be similar.

He said the Republicans on the board, who hold a 3-2 majority are opposed to the site. Dowling said he had not had a chance to determine the feelings of the two Democrats. Dowling said the board members' specific objections to the site were the increased traffic on Maple Avenue, the entrance would have to be widened to the site by acquiring and demolishing two homes which would be taken off the tax rolls, and the increased number of children and the noise would disturb the quiet residential area.

He also said there was a better site available. He referred the Broadhead Street to the Eaton Court site was the site, which he said would help eliminate a traffic hazard, and displace a minimum number of people.

Kent disagreed on the worth of the Broadhead site and said the authority had "turned it down flat." He said the area was "semi-industrial," had a court to block the project, would destroy the complex four months' without board approval of the street that was the pride approval. Dowling said he would never change his mind on the site, and he felt the other board members opposed to it would not change their minds.

States, Cities Would Benefit

House to Vote on Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5.3-billion-a-year program of federal aid to states and cities appears poised for easy passage in the House.

The opposition broke Wednesday when it was unable to force the bill open for amendments. The vote was 223 to 185 and the margin for passage later today is expected to be greater.

One of the opposition leaders, Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., said the procedural vote "pretty well decided the question."

"I'm not going to kid myself that anything I say is going to change the situation," Byrnes told the House later.

Although it is uncertain when the Senate will take up the measure, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Finance Committee said he will try to begin hearings before the July 10 Democratic convention.

Long predicted the bill will easily win Senate approval, though probably with some changes.

It would distribute initially $1.8 billion a year to the states, $3.5 billion to cities and other local governments. The state share would be increased over the five-year life of the program.

Tax effort, especially state income tax, would be the key element in dividing the states' share. The local governments would get their apportionments under a more complicated formula taking into account population, urban concentration and poverty.

The bill would provide also, on an optional basis, for joint collection of state and federal income taxes.

Poor People...Next Priority of Mayors

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, who for three years led the now nearly victorious fight for revenue sharing, says the next goal for the nation's mayors is to force the suburbs to assist in caring for the poor.

"The next priority is to get the entire metropolitan area to assume the burdens of poverty by enabling poor people to live outside the center city," said Maier. "It is going to be very tough to get this recognized as a national necessity, but it's a fight we have to take on. I don't see any alternative."

This neat, pipe-smoking mayor may seem like a David before the Goliath of opposition to racially and economically open housing in the suburbs, but nine years ago in Palo Alto he coined a phrase at a mayors' conference with his demand for "a reordering of national priorities."

This year every candidate for president claims that he has done that or will do it.

"I know we face political impracticabilities in this fight, but ultimately that would be quicker and less costly than to have the poor rattling around in the sandbox of the center cities as we have now with no end in sight," Maier said.

Asked if he had heard any presidential candidates talking about open housing this year, Maier said, "No, but in nine years we have accomplished a goal. People are now thinking about reordering national priorities. Important institutions like the Urban Coalition and the Brookings Institution and even a presidential candidate are not just talking about it but actually writing alternative federal budgets."

And, Maier said, in 1963 the federal government spent $5.5 billion in programs that helped cities and now the figure is $33 billion.

For the last three years, Maier has been the chief advocate among the mayors for revenue-sharing, their No. 1 priority, a program to give cities federal aid without restrictions on its use.

As Maier stepped down Wednesday after a year as president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, revenue-sharing passed a critical test in the House. The congressmen agreed to vote today on the bill without amendments that might have crippled it.

Wednesday, Maier predicted passage in the House and prompt attention in the Senate. Mayor Louie Welch of Houston, who succeeded Maier as president of the conference, said President Nixon had telephoned him to promise to use all his influence for a quick Senate approval.

Pay Board Fighting Rising Food Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration is ready to fight rising food prices with an offensive that could lead to controls on meat, vegetables and other products plus the lifting of meat import quotas.

The first step was to occur today when the Price Commission recommends to its parent Cost of Living Council that price controls be extended to now exempt raw agricultural products.

The decision, which is sure to provoke outcries from farmers, agricultural products."

But a spokesman told reporters:

"The commission feels the problem exists because of the lack of control of raw agricultural products... as a result of the discussions, the Cost of Living Council will have before it the thoughts of the Price Commission," when the council meets today.

"If the council decides to lift the exemption on raw agricultural products, the Price Commission will not be against it," he said.

The semi-independent commission has the power to freeze wholesale and retail prices, but only the council chaired by Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz can extend the controls to cover farm products.

Other administration sources said the White House was considering announcing in the next few days the suspension of the quota agreement that presently limits the amount of meat that can be imported into the United States.

More Delegate Votes Expected Soon

McGovern Eyes First Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern, who just months ago was considered only an interesting sideshow in the 1972 presidential sweepstakes, will sew up the Democratic nomination within nine days, says his chief delegate.

By the end of this week McGovern will have 1,407 delegates either legally or verbally committed to vote for him, according to Rick Stearns, the 27-year-old one-time theology student who keeps McGovern's charts on where the votes are. And by July 1 another 102 delegates will have swung over to McGovern to provide him on the first ballot with the 1,509 delegate votes needed for the nomination. Stearns said Wednesday. "I've always described myself as cautiously optimistic," Stearns added. "Now I've dropped the 'cautious' part. I'm absolutely confident we'll get it on the first ballot."

Stearns, who directs the delegate search in states without primary elections, has achieved a reputation for accuracy, if not slightly conservative, predictions of the numbers and sources of the senator's delegates.

Here's where Stearns expects

His projections for McGovern's final sprint to the nomination came one day after the candidate's strong showing in the New York primary. By the time the state's at-large delegates are picked this week, Stearns says, McGovern will have gained 253 first-ballot votes in New York.

Frank Manckiewicz, one of McGovern's top strategists, said Wednesday the McGovern nomination will be wrapped up so early that his chief competitors probably will drop out before the balloting begins in Miami Beach.

He says will be needed after Saturday:

—Illinois: 25 to 30 of the 58 there who presently favor Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

—New Jersey: 20 of the 24 to 27 considered uncommitted.

—Thirty to 40 presently uncommitted black delegates around the country. This group is expected to include 13 in the District of Columbia, six in Missouri, six to eight in Ohio and possibly as many as 13 in Louisiana.

McGovern himself has predicted an endorsement by uncommitted black delegates by next week. The senator's staff is currently working out arrangements for him to meet with Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

—Pennsylvania: 6 from the uncommitted ranks.

—And finally, Stearns predicted, "We expect to get 30 or 40 on a 'nickle-and-dime' basis" around the country, including small groups in Colorado, Utah, Montana, and Oklahoma.

He said the uncommitted delegates realize "they now have become very important" to clinching McGovern's nomination before the convention opens.

Nina Van Pallandt (L) holds a news conference to answer a charge made over the weekend by Edith Irving. The Irvings are shown at right on their way to court for sentencing.

Replying to Mrs. Irving's charge that she was a marriage wrecker, Miss Van Pallandt said she had dated Irving before he married Edith. "I never went out with him again until last year," the Danish entertainer said. "Clifford Irving told me then that his marriage with Edith was on the rocks, that she was having an affair with a German and he was planning a divorce. In view of the fact that I was separated from my husband, I saw nothing immoral in going out with him."

Sen. Kennedy... An Emphatic 'No'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said on Wednesday "there are no circumstances under which I would accept a nomination for any national office this year."

Kennedy's statement appeared to go beyond any he has made to quash continuing speculation that he might accept the Democratic presidential or vice-presidential nomination at the party's Miami Beach convention next month.

An aide said his statement was prompted by a story in the New York Times that Matt Troy, a Queens Democratic leader, would undertake a move to draft Kennedy for the vice-presidential nomination.

Here is Kennedy's statement: "Because of a story which appeared in the New York Times on Wednesday and in order to prevent any further speculation on the part of the press or any doubt in the minds of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention or the public, I wish to repeat and state, as finally as I can, that there are no circumstances under which I would accept a nomination for any national office this year."

In New York, Troy, one of the original McGovern backers here, called for a "legitimate full-blown" nationwide draft of Kennedy for the vice-presidential nomination.

Troy, a city councilman with a long-standing friendship with Kennedy family members, said he submitted a formal statement calling for the draft movement to the Massachusetts senator for his approval or disapproval.

At a news conference earlier, Sen. George McGovern said his staff had been told of Troy's intention, but added he would make no decision about a running mate before the convention.

Praise For Celler From Colleagues in the House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elizabeth Holtzman, 30, contended that Emanuel Celler, 84, wasn't attuned to the times. His close associates in the House agreed. They said he usually was ahead of the times.

Mournfully today they ticked off the record: As chairman of the Judiciary Committee for 21 years Manny Celler did most of the writing and much of the pushing to get through Congress civil rights laws that the country had to swallow hard to accept.

He sponsored antitrust, gun reform, civil liberties, court control and other legislation considered advanced or progressive. He authored four amendments to the Constitution, including the ban on poll taxes.

He did, alas, oppose a fifth constitutional amendment (still pending in state legislatures), to guarantee equal rights for women. And Elizabeth Holtzman said this showed he not only was old but a sexist. So she ran against him, and won.

Knowing now what he did not know before Tuesday's New York primary election, Celler wishes he had taken Miss Holtzman more seriously.

Maybe he would have gotten out and campaigned like he did a couple of decades ago before he started taking his re-election for granted.

But he wouldn't have changed his stand on the equal rights amendment. He said at the time the Constitution already carried plenty of guarantees against sex discrimination. Enforcement was needed, not an amendment, he said.

Miss Holtzman will have a hard time replacing Manny Celler in the affection and respect of returning House members. Almost all the members like Celler, even those who oppose his ideas and battle his bills.

Israel Denies Report

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Israel denied a Lebanese report that its forces shelled two border villages today, following up its attack on a village and guerrilla camps in southeast Lebanon Wednesday.

The report came from Lebanese living in the border area, but an Israeli military spokesman "completely denied" it. "It's simply not true," he said. The Lebanese government barred newsmen from the area. There were also unconfirmed reports that Israeli tanks had crossed the border again today in the Mt. Hermon area that was attacked Wednesday.

Israeli patrols were active along Israel's side of the border today, searching all cars and keeping a sharp lookout for any attempt by the Palestine guerrillas to retaliate for Wednesday's strike.

The Lebanese government and the guerrilla command claimed the Israeli raiders killed 23 Arabs—9 Lebanese and 14 guerrillas—and wounded 33 in the air, artillery and ground attacks on the village of Hasbaya and nearby guerrilla camps on the western slope of Mt. Hermon. But other sources in Beirut said the number of dead and wounded was closer to 150.

OUR ENERGY CRISIS

PART 3

During the last two weeks we've described our country's growing energy shortage and how it came about. We've also talked about the need to conserve all forms of energy. There's something else you should know about this problem: you'll be paying substantially more for all forms of energy in the future.

How much more? We're not sure, but we know that it's costing more to find, develop and deliver energy to the consumer.

For example, let's look at the nationwide shortage of natural gas. There's a huge potential supply of gas in this country, but before gas producers invest hundreds of millions of dollars to find and develop this supply they'll need prices higher than those the federal government now allows. In addition to increasing domestic supplies, it will be necessary to import foreign gas and to manufacture synthetic gas. These sources of gas are even more expensive. It's clear that natural gas will cost substantially more in the future.

A shift to other fossil fuels—such as oil—won't solve our energy problems, because they are in short supply too, and are becoming more expensive.

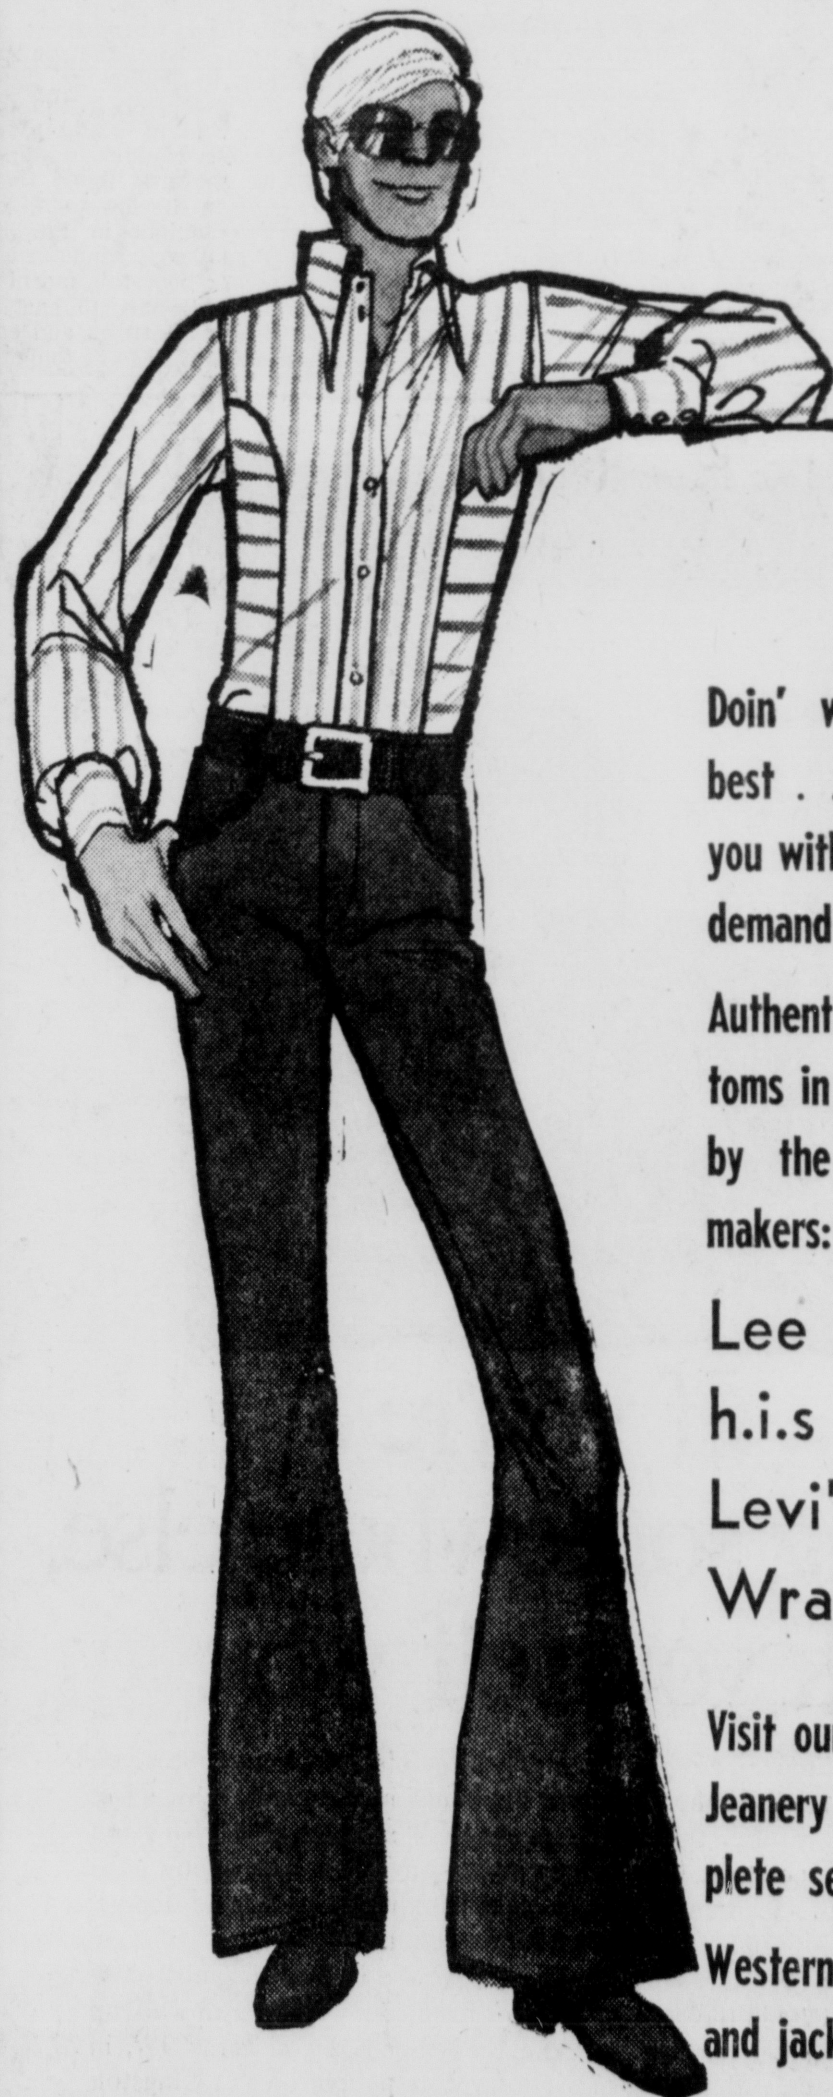

The fact is that our energy needs have grown so large that all of our energy resources must be used. We have reached the point where we no longer can choose one fuel over another; we'll need them all to meet our country's total energy demands.

We've been asking our customers throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley to conserve all forms of energy because of growing shortages. And because the days of cheap energy are behind us, you really can't afford to waste it.

Conserving the nation's energy is a good thing to do. We'd better start right now.

Sinatra Will Never Retire From Spotlight

EDITORS' NOTE: This is the last of three articles on the riddle of Frank Sinatra and why he has resisted efforts of Congressional crime probes to question him.

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Frank Sinatra has retired from show business, but he cannot retire from the spotlight. He probably never will.

He is wanted by the House Crime Committee to be examined about his alleged connections with the underworld. A spokesman for that committee said, "All steps possible have been taken to serve Sinatra with a subpoena the moment he returns to the United States." To Sinatra it is an old song indeed.

He was wanted by a grand jury in New Jersey, another in New York. He has testified time and again about his business and social acquaintances.

In each case he has responded to the same questions with the same answers: That he has no connections with the underworld, that he has no business dealings with them.

One of his advisers was asked why Sinatra did not come out in the open, accept the current subpoena and satisfy the crime committee members.

Same Old Rigamarole
"Why?" was the reply. "He's gone through this same rigamarole so many times there is nothing more for him to say on the subject. The people asking the questions know the answers in advance."

Sinatra was notified as long ago as May 8 that the crime committee sought him for questioning. The issue was muddled when it was understood the singer's lawyer would accept the subpoena for him. Attorney Mickey Rudin subsequently denied he was empowered to accept the subpoena.

When Sinatra appeared at a fund-raising dinner for Vice President Spiro Agnew in Baltimore last month, process servers were asked not to embarrass Sinatra by serving the subpoena in public. They refrained.

The committee was asked by Sen. John Tunney to "take it easy" on Sinatra, causing confusion all around. Committee Chairman Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) said the singer would be given no special treatment. Not even Sinatra's closest friends know his plans.

Rudin refused to answer any questions at all. Sinatra's press agent, Jim Mahoney, said all he knew was, "Frank is in England talking about making a movie with Frederick Loewe."

Retirement Is Stormy
Loewe happens to be Sinatra's neighbor in Palm Springs. It is of more than passing interest they would travel to London to discuss whether he would appear in "The Little Prince" for Paramount Pictures in faraway Britain.

So Frank Sinatra's retirement is as stormy and controversial as his career had been.

The last lines he spoke on the night of his retirement were,

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 22, 1972

WASHINGTON — There was high drama on the Senate floor five years ago this week.

Senator Tom Dodd, slumped in his seat, silver hair askew, a harried look in his eyes, fingered a loaded pistol in his coat pocket while he waited for his Senate colleagues to censure him.

Those who knew about the pistol feared the despondent Dodd might try to end his humiliation with a pistol shot, thereby turning the drama into Roman tragedy in front of the assembled senators.

This footnote to history, heretofore unrecorded, occurred on June 23, 1967. We have now pieced together the details.

Dodd was notified early in the day that there was no chance for him to avoid censure. He was informed, indeed, that the vote against him would be overwhelming.

Crushed, he brooded over the idea of becoming one of the six men in U.S. history to be censured by their Senate peers. Out of the thoughts tumbling through his mind, a plot began to take shape.

Across the street in his Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee was a collection of pistols. Dodd, ironically, was a champion of gun control and the pistols had been collected as exhibits for his antigun legislation. He was their official custodian.

The despairing senator dialed the subcommittee and reached Eugene Gleason, a staff member.

Asks for Gun
"Gene," said Dodd shakily, "there's some trouble up near the house with crime. Georgetown's full of hippies. I want you to bring me up a small automatic, maybe one of those .25 caliber ones, with a clip."

Gleason, a gruff, prize-winning former newsmen, loved the old man. Between them was a candor that Dodd rarely achieved with his subordinates.

Gleason tried to soothe the troubled senator but finally agreed to deliver the pistol, thinking this would give him a chance for a face-to-face talk. He also notified the subcommittee's staff director, criminologist Carl Perian, of Dodd's disturbing request.

Did Dodd intend to turn the pistol on himself? The two staff men left their office so they would have complete privacy and paced the halls as they discussed the possibility.

"Why else would he be asking for it?" demanded Perian.

"Look," said Gleason. "Don't worry. I know him. He won't do it."

Together, they delivered the small .25 caliber automatic. They found Dodd anxious, remote.

"What do you want with this?" asked Gleason firmly. "I don't think it's a good idea."

"I need it to protect my home," insisted the senator. Unwillingly, Gleason surrendered the pistol.

Dodd was wearing a stylish summer suit — four-button coat and peg trousers — with his identifying prop, his father's gold watch fob and chain suspended from his lapel. He slipped the automatic into his right-hand coat pocket.

Gleason tried again to persuade Dodd not to carry the pistol, but the senator only smiled wanly. "I may leave it in the office," he mumbled, his voice trailing. Then, to appease them, he transferred the pistol from his pocket to his desk drawer.

Dramatic Scene

Hoping they had persuaded him to leave the gun in his office for good, the two staff men settled in the Senate gallery to watch the censure proceedings. After Dodd made his appearance, Perian suddenly nudged Gleason and exclaimed: "Gene! He's still got the gun in his pocket!" Sure enough, there was an ominous sag in Dodd's right-hand coat pocket.

"Better get down there!" urged Perian.

Gleason dashed down the stairs to the Senate cloakroom but couldn't get past the plainclothesmen who were assigned, ironically, to protect the senators from harm.

The only way Gleason could get the pistol away from Dodd was to inform on him and subject him to the additional humiliation of being disarmed on the Senate floor. Gleason decided to trust Dodd's tenacious sense of survival and his Roman Catholic conscience.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield gently ushered Dodd into the cloakroom, out of sight, while the roll was called. One by one, his colleagues voted, 92 to 5, to censure him for misconduct.

His disappearance into the cloakroom, meanwhile, raised new apprehensions with Perian and Gleason. They almost expected to hear a muffled shot.

Gleason rushed back down the stairs and tried again to get to the senator. But again, Gleason was rebuffed. Then the two staff members hurried to Dodd's office where friends had gathered to console the stricken senator.

When they eventually reached Dodd's side, Gleason whispered: "Don't ever do that again! Here, let me have it. Gimme this." Then he expertly lifted the pistol from Dodd's pocket.

"C'mon, Gene," the old man said gamely. "What were you guys worried about?"

A few days later, he turned over to Perian a German automatic pistol he had kept around his home. Perian discreetly didn't remind Dodd that, obviously, he hadn't needed the .25 automatic earlier to protect his home.

Footnote: It is only fair to add that Dodd, following his censure, went on working hard for gun controls. He was instrumental in pushing through the Senate both the gun control act of 1968 and the federal narcotics act of 1970.

Some Foresaw Bogdown

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is now known that a group of Hanoi's top strategists forecast in advance their belief as to where and how their invasion of the South would bog down.

These ranking North Vietnamese military-political men wrote down their analysis last December, four months before the drive across the Demilitarized Zone.

Yet Hanoi went ahead with the invasion. These planners said they were going into battle dreadfully unprepared. They believed Saigon and other cities were ripe for uprisings.

They were certain such uprisings were essential for the success of the invasion. They predicted these uprisings would not occur because adequate preparation had not been made. That is, they calculated that the local people, though dissatisfied, had not been properly motivated for action to support the "Revolution."

The Hanoi strategists anticipated that when the invasion came the South Vietnamese army would pull back to defend South Vietnam, giving up land and cities to preserve mobility and not sacrifice the cream of the South's military forces in the first flush of invasion.

To counter this, the Hanoi planners said, it was essential that Communist agents diligently penetrate South Vietnam's forces from within. The Saigon government troops would be demoralized before fighting began and therefore would not be able to stand up to the invaders.

But in their pre-battle analysis these Communist strategists said that the task of enemy troop proselytizing had been handled "very superficially."

Further, the Hanoi analysts predicted success if, and only if, the Communist guerrillas in the South, by extensive coordinated small rural actions, could force the Saigon government to defend large scattered areas and thus spread the South Vietnamese forces so thin Hanoi's troops would be able to drive through the weakened defense lines.

They noted also that Hanoi's armies would require strong and efficient direct screening and intelligence support from the southern Communist guerrilla forces.

But they complained the development of village and district armed units had been very slow. They said party committees have chosen to ignore this problem. And the reported recruitment of secret guerrillas was totally inadequate.

Next, these North Vietnamese strategists said it was essential the underground party chapters be strong and well-organized for civil functions, able quickly to take over administrative and police operations in occupied territory to free Hanoi's troops for rapid military advances, and to pacify the rear areas. But in their preinvasion analysis they reported that recruitment had been slow and the task of strengthening party chapters had not been accomplished.

Finally, the Hanoi planners said success would depend on efficient communication and close coordination. But they noted the dissemination of party directives had been inadequate and superficial. Therefore, their implementation had been "hampered" and party members had exhibited a lack of determination.

It could hardly be argued that Hanoi believed these weaknesses would be corrected in the four months before the invasion, for these experienced guerrilla strategists most certainly knew that weaknesses of the scale described in their analysis could not be corrected in less than one to five years.

Martin Nolan Says

Senate Base Cools Kennedy

WASHINGTON — One reason why Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would "not exclude the possibility" of leaving the Senate for the limbo of the vice-presidency is the fact that the Senate itself may become more of a limbo in the 1970s.

The old guard is prospering in the Senate these days and the time of glory for senators of Kennedy's generation seems increasingly remote. On the day that the Massachusetts senator was pondering the possibilities of accepting a call for the vice-presidential nomination, Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas was repelling the primary challenge of a young moderate Rep. David Pryor.

Kennedy is still fifth in seniority on the Judiciary Committee behind McClellan, Philip Hart of Michigan and those two other monuments of Confederation agelessness, Sens. Sam Ervin of North Carolina and James Eastland of Mississippi.

The antebellum South is rising again, with Republicans Strom Thurmond and John Tower standing pretty stout in South Carolina and Texas this year. Moderate Senate Democrats are challenged by G.O.P. strength in Dixie — William Spong in Virginia, David Gambrell in Georgia and the venerable John J. Sparkman in Alabama.

Kennedy's friend Fred Harris will no longer represent Oklahoma and Sen. Claiborne Pell's return is being threatened in Rhode Island. Republicans in sympathy with Kennedy's views will find their ranks depleted. Retiring Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky is a different bucket of fried chicken from ex-Gov. Louie B. Nunn, the Republican favored to win that Senate race.

The Senate over-all is drifting away from the popular notion as the Congressional body more responsive to public wishes for change. The House of Representatives, a sleeping giant for a half-century, is slowly being politicized.

At the other side of the Capitol a generous pension plan and growing public restlessness with silent patriarchy has led to a growing number of early retirements. Senior Congressmen are bugging out before they reach 80.

In the biographical bilge about the Kennedys, Teddy has always been "more of a Senate man" than either of his brothers. That theory, however, needs revision in light of the inelegant dumping of the Massachusetts senator early in 1971 when Senate Democrats chose Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia as majority whip.

Kennedy is certainly not less gregarious because of his defeat, but the number of soulmates to be gregarious with is shrinking. Of the new crop of Democrats elected in 1970, only Sen. John Tunney of California is Kennedy's kind of guy.

If the House is where the political action of the 1970s is, its direction will be found in a strong-willed Democratic President carrying out a mandate for change. This textbook picture of politics is probably what the framers of the Constitution had in mind when they expected the Senate to represent diverse parochial interests and the House to represent the popular will.

This vision seems farcical, but until recently so did the picture of George McGovern as the political paladin of the counter culture.

If there is a McGovern administration without Kennedy in it, then Kennedy will be the most suspected, feared outsider. If he thinks of grinding a bill through the committee system is tough now, what will it be like then?

The vice-presidency is still a Throbbottom thorne, but American politics is undergoing a change. If Kennedy gets to be vice-president, he'll have a lot of time to think about the change.

Japan's Open Door

The old saying is that God does not close one door without opening another one for us. It is also true that we get nowhere if we keep slamming doors behind us as fast as we open doors ahead. An example of international open doors has just been shown by the Nixon administration's mission to Tokyo. It proved it had not shut the door to Tokyo even after it had, ever so slightly, opened the door to Peking.

Henry Kissinger's visit to Tokyo, just completed, proved that the United States values its long-time open doors. Our relationship seems to have brightened after the clouds accumulated by Nixon's diplomacy with China.

The gist of the message brought back is that there remains room for solid friendship with the Japanese. They have been called cold and indifferent, but who could have seen the heartfelt ministrations of the Japanese Ambassador and his wife to the victims of the Israeli airport bombing and not believe they possess deep human compassion? And there was the Japanese widow who came 7,000 miles to thank members of a New York City police squad for apprehending her husband's slayers and honoring his memory.

An era of understanding between nations rests upon understanding between their people. Keeping doors ajar is the only way to live in today's world.

Busing Appraisal

A study of mandatory busing in six Northern cities, by a Harvard-based research statistician, discloses that there was no conclusive proof that busing was beneficial to the black pupils involved. David J. Armor, an associate professor of sociology, argued that mandatory busing was questionable because the measured results had shown no improvement in academic skills, self-esteem, aspirations, or racial tolerance, among the black youngsters to white suburbs.

The study and its conclusions were published in the summer issue of The Public Interest. A group led by Professor Thomas F. Pettigrew, a social psychologist, is preparing a rebuttal to be published in the autumn issue. Pettigrew charges that Armor's study drew overly broad conclusions on the basis of incorrect interpretations and narrowly selected data involving a relative handful of students.

Pettigrew cited the fact that the Armor study excludes studies from other cities, such as Sacramento, Calif.; Goldboro, N. C.; Evanston, Ill.;

Berkeley, Calif., and Rochester, N. Y.; some of which show positive results from busing.

Armor, who will soon leave Harvard for the University of California at Los Angeles, readily agreed that the studies were not perfect and that more research was needed. His studies were in Boston, New Haven, Hartford, White Plains, New York, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Riverside, Calif. A control group, consisting of the brothers and sisters of the bused students, was followed to see if the students going to white schools progressed at different rates from those remaining in black schools in the city.

Considering himself an integrationist, Armor said the studies were "disappointing enough," that "we have to raise the question of what possible harmful effects there are on the black child." Taking note of Pettigrew's challenge, Armor added, "The burden of proof is on those who are arguing that we have to reconstruct our whole society." If blacks do not benefit, it would be easier and cheaper to stop busing altogether.

corridor, photographs, plaques, medals and flags tell the story of his life, from his boyhood in Missouri to his promotion to the army's highest rank. It is a unique tribute to "soldiers' general."

Onteora Procedure

Editor, The Freeman:

The District Council of the Onetea Teachers Association has directed that a public statement be made pertaining to the situation involving the dismissal of Mr. Robert Lippman, a probationary teacher at Onetea.

The Onetea Teachers Association recognizes the legal right of the Board of Education to dismiss any probationary teacher after giving 30 days notice to that person.

However, the OTA is concerned about the entire evaluation procedure in the district. The process of evaluation and retention or dismissal is very complex, and Mr. Lippman's situation has certainly highlighted its complexity.

In the four formal evaluations in Mr. Lippman's folder, all ratings were checked as "satisfactory" or "needs improvement." There were no "unsatisfactory" ratings per se. There were additional comments, some favorable, some unfavorable, made by the evaluator. Mr. Lippman also had the opportunity to respond to his evaluations, which he did.

In examining these evaluation reports it becomes clear that the administrative decisions based on these documents must be judgmental. In the judgment of the people responsible for making the decision, Mr. Lippman should not be retained.

However, the District Council of the OTA found that certain procedural matters which are clearly stipulated in our negotiated contract have been violated. The normal way to handle violations of the contract when they occur is through the grievance procedure, which is also a matter of contract. The proper OTA committee for handling Association grievances has been notified and will document these violations, as well as other violations of the stipulated procedure which have occurred throughout the district. The grievance then will be given to the Superintendent of Schools, and if no conclusion satisfactory to both parties can be reached, the grievance then proceeds directly to the Board of Education.

It seems clear that the entire evaluation process needs careful, dispassionate scrutiny by all people directly involved in the school situation. There are definitely ways to improve and refine the process so that Onetea will not have such turmoil in the future.

Legal Notices

Editor, The Freeman:

Appearing in the Ulster County Townsman on June 15, 1972 is a Legal Announcement stating that a public hearing will be held on June 28, 1972 concerning a Public Trailer Ordinance for the Town of Shandaken.

As a concerned citizen I demand to know how a public hearing can be held without any mention of it at any Town Board Meeting or without distribution of any written, or verbal, material on the substance of the ordinance.

If it is legally possible for the Town Supervisor to follow the above pattern, arbitrarily deciding amongst himself and a select few, that the existing public, his constituents are not capable of deciding properly their own laws. I for one seriously question the ethics of such a decision.

Upon questioning Mr. Ray Dunn on the availability of written material concerning the ordinance I was told that the delay was due to the existing price of printing the material. This in my estimation is a poor excuse for lack of good judgement, when the proposed law will so seriously affect many of the towns residents.

According to the legal announcement in the "Townsman" a copy of the ordinance is posted at all Post Offices in the Town of Shandaken. If these copies were printed for this purpose, it stands to reason it would have been easier and less expensive to print as many more copies as were necessary at that time to satisfy or at least attempt to satisfy the estimated demand for them.

At the last such meeting on May 25, 1972 concerning Public Trailer Law No. 1, well over 90 per cent of the estimated 200 people attending were not in favor of the ordinance as presented at that time. However, the amazing factor that emerged was that the same 90 per cent (including an overwhelming number of trailer owners and renters) favored some sort of trailer law or zoning regulation.

I further believe that the people who live in trailers as well as the people who own permanent homes in the township are lawabiding, tax-paying citizens and all of us in our way a credit to this community. As such I feel as I'm sure many others do, that we — all of us in this township — have a just, God given, legal and moral right to know fully the laws that will govern us, and our families.

It is with due concern over the abridgement of these rights that I feel I must demand, as a townsman and a taxpayer, from the Town Supervisor and the Town Planning Board the full availability of this proposed ordinance to all citizens for their study and evaluation.

Thank you,
STEVE STETTINE

McGovern Bus

Editor, The Freeman:

I feel that I must reply to the letter submitted to you by Mr. Jay R. Maurer as published in your Sunday, June 18th issue.

It is not my intention in this reply to argue the merits or pros and cons of Sen McGovern's qualifications. However, I do want to take issue with Mr. Maurer with respect to his comments implying that the young people shown boarding a bus for a McGovern rally in Albany, were irresponsibly frittering away their time and their parents' money instead of being gainfully employed. Evidently, Mr. Maurer had simply jumped to a series of conclusions without taking the trouble to look into the facts.

Actually, the picture of the bus-boarding, to which Mr. Maurer has reference, was taken at approximately 5:30 p.m. and as the father of one of the teenagers who was on the bus, I assure Mr. Maurer that my son and at least half of the busload which consisted of high school students, had already attended a full day of school and were not playing "hooky." A number of others on the bus were college students home on vacation, most of whom intend working during the summer so that they may continue their education. In addition, I can personally vouch for the fact that many others, including adults, had already put in a full day's work, myself included, and had to rush after work and without dinner, to make the bus on time.

As Mr. Maurer can see, therefore, no employers were necessarily being cheated by irresponsible employees and since there was no charge for the trip, none of the parents had to put in any overtime in order to pay for what Mr. Maurer refers to as the "luxury of campaign expenses."

To insinuate from a photograph that a busload of people are irresponsible, is as wrong as making the same assumption, from a picture showing the crowd at Shea Stadium on any weekday. I can't help but feel that Mr. Maurer's inquiry into the values of the people involved in the bus trip, was simply based on his own personal views of Sen. McGovern, and it is suggested that Mr. Maurer check his facts before jumping to any further conclusions about either political rallies or the correct views of any political candidate.

Radiation

Editor, The Freeman:

The article "Physics Professor 'Atom as Energy Source Threatened'" in the 18 of June 1972 Sunday Freeman page 21 is interesting. May I offer some comments from history?

Roentgen observed some of the properties of X-Rays in 1895 and reported them to the public in 1896. Their value for medical diagnosis was immediately recognized and soon put to use. By 1903 the damaging effects of these X-Rays on tissue had been reported. Devices to protect both the patient and technician were developed.

However, people forget. In 1949 Professor H. J. Muller again warned the public of the hazards of radiation and of exposure to "unusual chemicals."

We are indebted to Dr. Sternglass and the Woodstock PTA for this new reminder. His use of the extinct dinosaur as analogy is especially interesting. Scientists have been puzzled about the cause of the extinction of these large animals. One of the theories is that human hunters killed them in large numbers, probably for food.

Sincerely yours

Onteora Dismissal

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter will probably never reach those who need to read it, but in the hopes that I am proven wrong, I would like to express my reaction to the meeting which I witnessed at Onetea Senior High School on June 19, 1972. The incident to which I am referring was the Onetea Board of Education meeting at which Robert Lippman, a teacher in that school system, was dismissed.

The fact that the charges were vague; the fact that observations of Mr. Lippman's classes showed a steady improvement on his part, until the final observation was very laudatory; the fact that the administration submitted unofficial observations as evidence just prior to the "hearing" given to Mr. Lippman; and the fact that Mr. Lippman was not allowed to cross-examine witnesses, or to speak in his own behalf at that "hearing." All of this and much more is not nearly as disturbing as several questions I post to that Board in particular, as well as to anyone else who believes that justice was served last evening. What do we tell the children who came to that meeting — a naive, trusting, and believing in what they had been taught in that same school system (in any school system for that matter)?

These same children left crying, when they have so blindly refused to see the emotional damage they have done to so many young and trusting minds? I used to teach in the public schools but under similar circumstances, I was fired. In my limited experience in public education I found the same to be true of children in Saugerties, where I taught. They want to believe in what they are taught, but how can they when the people who preach are so poor at practicing? How can you sit idly by and watch your children numb their feelings and become apathetic long before their time? It is bad enough that many adults have stunted their mental growth out of a need to survive in this callous world. Must we also do this to our children, the only hope this world really has?

Tells State... 'Build Arterial Bridge'

Supervisor George H. Freer, continuing his campaign for a new bridge across the Rondout Creek, has called on the State Department of Transportation to carry out its plans for a new arterial bridge at Slighsburg.

Early this month the state confirmed reports that it plans extensive repairs, costing perhaps as much as two million dollars, on the old Rondout Bridge at Wurts Street. The old bridge would be shut down for as long as six months necessitating a long detour by motorists through New Salem and across the Eddyville Bridge. Esopus residents expressed strong opposition to that proposal, calling instead for a new bridge.

It was initially thought that the state would build a new bridge in place of the present one. Estimated construction costs on that project were close to $10 million with a two and a half year building period during which time traffic would have to be detoured. The arterial bridge, it was thought, would come at some later date.

But, as Freer explained today, the "new bridge" both he and the state were talking about was the proposed arterial bridge at Slighsburg. If the state agrees to build that bridge, the old bridge would undergo minimum repairs but would be open to traffic during the construction period of the new bridge. Freer figures that the cost between building a new (arterial) bridge and the complete repair of the old one plus the cost of detour routes would be "within a comparably small figure of the same amount of money for the new span when it is taken into consideration the federal aid on the new span nearest street on each end," Freer says. Wash-Freer said.

The long-range fate of the old Rondout Bridge remains in doubt. Originally, the state planned extensive repairs on it and then planned to turn it over to the county. According to Freer, "the county doesn't want it and the City of Kingston and the Town of Esopus couldn't afford to maintain it. In all probability, we will wind up with only the arterial," Freer said. "They will probably tear down the old bridge once the new one is completed. You wouldn't need two bridges over the Rondout Creek within a half mile of each other."

Freer has written Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and M. Nicholas Sinacori, district engineer for the Department of Transportation with his proposals. As yet, there have been no answers to the letters, sent out June 17.

Burglars Hit City Market

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Burglars evidently took their time after they reportedly forced their way into Schecter's Market at 86 North Front Street overnight, according to an investigation by Kingston detectives.

A 200-pound safe was reportedly hauled from the office into the meat cooler by the intruders who used a sledge hammer or some other heavy implement to batter open the safe. A preliminary check of the market showed that about 100 cartons of assorted cigarettes were stolen.

Whether any money or anything of value was taken from the safe had not been determined.

The break-in was discovered before 5 a.m.

Police learned that a heavy iron grating on the Green Street side of the building leading to the cellar had been removed and a large exhaust fan was pushed over in a window to apparently allow entry by the thieves. Once inside the building, the intruders made their way up the cellar stairs to a storeroom in the back of the store.

A cabinet was pried open and the contents of papers and records were scattered over the floor, authorities said. The safe was removed from the office and dragged part way across the floor. A hand truck was used to move the safe into the meat cooler where it was crudely hammered open. Two drawers in the safe were forced and pulled out.

Police also learned that a medicine cabinet in a bathroom was opened and ransacked.

It was the second meat market in the uptown business district that had been hit by burglars in two nights.

Schneller's Market at 63 John Street, was among several places burglarized Tuesday night or early Wednesday. A bag containing $70 in cash was stolen, Wash. 718 Broadway, which was entered through a rear door.

Police said the contents of a cigarette vending machine burglarized at Charlie's Rocket Car

Supreme Court Ruling Bars Cutting School Districts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today barred states and local governments from cutting up school districts in a way that would maintain dual racial systems.

In two opinions by Justice Potter Stewart, the Court ruled out such attempts in desegregation cases from Scotland Neck, Halifax County, N. C., and Emporia, Greensville County, Va.

Citing the Court's 1971 decision in a landmark North Carolina case, Stewart said "a new school district may not be created where its effect would be to impede the process of dismantling a dual system."

The "informed judgment" of U. S. District courts must be relied upon to determine what the effect would be, he said. Stewart cautioned however that mere disparity in the racial composition of the two systems alone would not be sufficient reason to bar the creation of a new district.

But in the Emporia case, he said, there is more involved than "disparity in racial percentages."

OBITUARIES

Rufino G. San Jose

Rufino G. San Jose, 71, of Elmendorf Heights, Town of Hurley, died in Kingston Tuesday. Surviving are a son, Manuel O. San Jose, M.D., and his wife Brigitte of Kingston; a daughter, Mrs. Aurora Floresca, M.D. of West Hurley; and eight grandchildren. Mr. Rufino was a retired manager of a bus company in Manila, Philippine Republic, and had resided in Kingston for the past six years with his son. Funeral and interment will take place in Manila. Local funeral arrangements by the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Kingston. There will be no calling hours at the funeral home and the family requests that flowers be omitted.

Genevieve M. Helmer

Mrs. Genevieve M. Helmer, of James Street, Rosendale, died Wednesday morning at Cornwall Hospital following a long illness. A lifelong resident of Rosendale, she was the daughter of the late Daniel J. and Catherine McCarthy Buckley. Surviving are her husband, John S. Helmer; two sons, John B. Helmer, Poughkeepsie and James F. Helmer, Willingboro, N. J.; a brother, Daniel Buckley, of Brooklyn; two sisters, Miss Florence Buckley, postmistress of Rosendale, and Sister Marie Girard, St. Mary's Convent, Newburgh. She was a member of St. Peter's Rosary Society and the Women's Club of Rosendale. Funeral services will be held from the George G. ### Mrs. Helen M. Zelle

Mrs. Helen M. Zelle, of 84 Johnston Avenue, Kingston, died Wednesday afternoon in Benedictine Hospital. A daughter of the late Warren and Rachel Wells Stokes, she had been a Kingston resident for about 40 years. She was a member of St. Joseph's Church. Survivors include her husband, J. Robert Zelle; a daughter, Miss Diane Zelle of Kingston; three sisters, Mrs. John Belin, Mrs. Henry Grube and Mrs. Donald Wood; six brothers, Oliver, George,

Mary Ann Longto of Kingston, who was convicted March 27 in the manslaughter death of her six-week-old infant daughter, Elizabeth, was sentenced to three years in a state prison at Bedford Hills today by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Assistant District Attorney Ellen G. Donovan recommended a penitentiary sentence for Mrs. Longto, who, according to trial testimony, allegedly hit her daughter's head against a door-jamb. Mrs. Longto was eligible for 15 years imprisonment.

In passing sentence, Judge Mino noted that the young woman would receive psychiatric guidance and job training in prison. Mrs. Longto had indicated she would like to become a beautician.

Four motions to have the jury verdict set aside were made by the defendant's attorney, Charles Saccoman.

Warning on Refrigerators

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has issued a warning to all persons having unused refrigerators anywhere on their premises to remove either the door on the container or the locking device on the door.

"Empty refrigerators," said Vogt, have a great attraction for small children who use them as hiding places, with too often, fatal results.

Vogt, describing a recent such tragedy in Saugerties, said that two young children crawled into an unused refrigerator and died of suffocation when the door closed on them.

Here's what you're missing in comfort, dependability and safety features if your Chevrolet is 3 years old.

Impala Custom Coupe

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

What a '72 Impala has that your old one doesn't.

- Power front disc brakes, variable-ratio power steering and Turbo Hydra-matic automatic transmission are now standard equipment. Just three more examples of how we're building a better way to see the U.S.A.
- Long 121.5" wheelbase. Long on smoothness. Long on comfort.
- A full-molded foam front seat. Not only is it full foam, it's contoured to hold you comfortably. You find it in expensive cars. And now in Chevrolets.
- Power ventilation system. Keeps outside air coming inside—1 even when the car is stopped—without opening any windows.
- All Chevrolet engines run on low-lead, no-lead or regular gasoline.
- A double-panel roof that's strong on the outside, quiet on the inside.
- Sealed side-terminal battery. Terminals are sealed to prevent corrosion buildup.
- An advanced emission control system so we can all breathe a little easier.
- A front seat and shoulder belt system with reminder light and warning buzzer so you won't forget to buckle up.
- A hidden antenna in the windshield when you order a factory-installed radio. It won't get bent, folded or mutilated by vandals and garage doors.

You also can take comfort in Impala's traditionally high resale value. Which is another reason why Americans have bought more Impalas than any other car on the road—over 10 million so far.

What a '72 Chevelle has that your old one doesn't.

- A larger standard 6-cyl. engine (250 cu. in.). And all Chevelle engines now run on no-lead, low-lead or regular gasoline.
- Side-guard door beams—like those guard rails you see along the highway—are in the doors of every new Chevelle.
- An advanced emission control system that's helping in the fight against pollution.
- Corrosion-resistant, fully aluminized tailpipe for long life.
- Front seat and shoulder belt system with reminder light and warning buzzer. Just a gentle reminder that you should buckle up.
- A sealed side-terminal battery. With the terminals sealed, corrosion is less apt to build up and rob you of starting power.
- Long-lasting bias belted ply tires. Tire performance is improved because the twin belts keep it from squiggling away on the pavement.
- A refined Delcotron generator gives you improved reliability and greater durability.
- When you order a new Chevelle with a factory-installed radio, you get the antenna in the windshield. Safe from vandals and garage doors.

The '72 Chevelle has some other things going for it, too. Like its traditionally high resale value. Like being named the "Best Intermediate Sedan" in the annual Car and Driver Readers' Choice Poll. And being the most popular car in its field year after year.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with. Buckle up.

It may look small, but it is bigger than it looks — the new Marblatown Grange Mini-park, that is. At dedication ceremonies Sunday, June 18, more than 100 persons fit comfortably into the little park on Route 209 in Stone Ridge.

The new park, built on the site where the old Marblatown Grange Hall stood for more than 50 years, was designed and planted by the town's Beautification Committee.

Main speaker at the event was Fred Eckert, Pomona Grand Master of the Ulster County Grange. Other speakers

Man Cleared In Rape Case

KINGSTON A Kingston man, Russell Aronis, 22, has been cleared of charges of first degree rape in connection with a 15-year old girl.

Assistant District Attorney Ellen Donovan moved to dismiss the information Tuesday night in Hurley Town Court after she overheard the girl admit to her mother that "I don't know who raped me."

Later, on the witness stand the girl admitted to the court that she couldn't identify anyone as the rapist.

Investigation further disclosed that Aronis was driving a taxicab in Esopus at the time of the alleged rape on the Sawkill Road in Sawkill. Aronis was represented by Kingston lawyer William Pretsch.

50 Protest Assessments Before Kingston Board

KINGSTON Some 50 persons availed themselves of the opportunity to officially protest their assessments Tuesday before the Kingston Board of Assessment Review.

Four members of the board held hearings at Grievance Day, including Joseph Saccoman (board chairman), Roland Augustine, Mrs. Marguerite Logan and Charles Brocco. James Devine, the other board member, was vacationing in Europe and was unable to attend.

The afternoon session was held in the Common Council chambers at city hall while the evening session was held in the Building Department. Mrs. Ella Clausi, secretary to the building assessor heard all grievances. Now, the assessor has no part in the grievance procedure; the board makes the decision. City Assessor Walter Tatarzewski is an impartial board rather than "wholeheartedly" in favor of before an assessor as before.

Saugerties Taxpayers Stage Demonstration

SAUGERTIES Taxpayers Group, said that the line of demonstrators reached 200 at times and that 100 were still on the scene when the Grievance Day hearings came to an end more than an hour behind the scheduled closing time of 10 p.m.

Mrs. Alice Tipp, president of the We've Had It Taxpayers Association (WHITA) of Ulster was gratified by the large turnout and the orderly way in which demonstrators conducted the new setup, mandated by state law. "Basically, it gives the individual taxpayer a chance to really grieve before this is definitely a better system," Tatarzewski said the 50 grievances recorded yesterday pointed out that the assessor does not set the tax rate. "Previously the assessor acted as assessor and judge. This is definitely a better system," Tatarzewski said the 50

Synagogue News

Temple Emanuel

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn will give the second part of his report on the recent Reform Rabbi's Conference at Sabbath services 7:30 p.m. Friday at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. His talk is entitled "What Went on at Grossingers?" — The Lenn Report.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Folet Wolff, Herman Projan, Morris Kaplan, Jennie Joslovitz, Samuel Meyer, and Simon Newland.

After services the Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Serinsky in honor of Scott Serinsky's forthcoming Bar Mitzvah.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday at 9:30 a.m., followed by a Kiddush. Services are conducted by Dr. Harry Z. Schectman, rabbi of the congregation, and the liturgy is chanted by Cantor Michael Perlstein.

This Friday evening the Mourners Prayer will be offered for the following whose yahrtzeiten will be observed in the coming week: Edward Goldschlag, Esther Levine Gordon, Bertha Lober, Joseph Pauker, Pauline Pepper and Hyman Reuben.

OCS Head To Attend Conference

Dr. Frank M. Marlow, Superintendent of Ontario Schools, Boiceville, has accepted an invitation to attend the 31st annual Superintendents Work Conference sponsored by Teachers College, Columbia University, July 10 through July 21.

Emphasis at this year's conference — an intensive two-week in-service program for public school administrators — will be on strategies to transform school desegregation into something approaching true integration.

Membership in the annual conference is by invitation and is limited to approximately 45 in order to facilitate group discussion and informal exchange of ideas. Participants are chosen through a national nominating process taking into consideration demonstrated leadership in their communities and regions.

Youth Fined In Glass Case

SHANDAKEN George Skaperdas, 18, of Rego Park, who pleaded guilty to jumping through the plate glass window of the Gordon Drug Store, Main Street, Phoenixia, on June 5, was fined $10 Tuesday night by Town of Shandaken Justice George Kirk.

Kirk said that the youth had also made restitution to the drug store for $377 in damages. He had been free on $30 bail while awaiting sentencing.

Arresting officers were Chief Constable George Schiegel and Deputy Thomas Sullivan of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

OCS Grads To Receive Diplomas

BOICEVILLE Commencement exercises for approximately 218 graduating seniors at Onteora Central High School will be held in the high school gymnasium on Sunday, June 25, beginning at 7 p.m.

In keeping with school policy in past years there will be no outside speaker for the graduation exercises. Instead, two students chosen from the school's 31 honor students, Kimberley Thayer and Ingrid Vogt, and Barbara O'Brien, president of the senior class, will address the graduates.

W. Jack Kahn, president of the Board of Education, will also address the graduating seniors and will present diplomas.

The high school orchestra will play the processional and recessional for the exercises.

Honors graduates are Kimberley Thayer, Teresa Peekema, Ingrid Vogt, Robin MacFadden, Brenda Howland, Sandra Malek, Carolyn Viskocil, Suzanne Goddard, Robert Zoehseld, and Sonja Klafsig.

Also, Karen Sahulka, Kathleen Weidner, Leslie Kalish, Shannon Sweeney, Elizabeth Wilson, Christine Howland, Linda Mueller, Valerie Munson, Diane Horvath, and Mardie Klinger.

Also, Deborah Logan, Susan Lane, Patricia Abels, Barbara Buoymaster, Louise Dunn, Caryl Lattos, Mark Deuser, Jean Ruggles, Karen Stroh, Eli Ashley, and Jai Waggoner.

Pine Bush... Largest Class

A class of 168 graduates, largest in the school's history, will receive diplomas at commencement exercises of Pine Bush High School.

The graduation exercises will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 24, in the high school gymnasium.

James F. McIntyre, chairman of the English Department of the high school, was selected by the graduating class as the principal speaker. Other speakers will be Andreas Glaeser, valedictorian, and Marc Schultz, salutatorian.

Following the invocation, the valedictorian and salutatorian will speak and will be followed by presentation of special awards by the Pine Bush American Legion post. McIntyre's speech will follow.

The high school symphony band, directed by Greg Cunningham, will present a musical interlude and play the processional and recessional for the ceremonies.

Graduates will receive their diplomas from J. Gregston Greer, president of the Board of Education.

Members of the Pine Bush chapter of the National Honor Society included in the graduating class, in addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian, are Christel Apelles, Linda Beaudreau, Charles Boyle, Mildred Caston, Robert Collins, Linda Correll, Nadine, Doviak, Dale Ecker, Alan Eskew, and Kathleen Grossi.

Also Elaine Heafy, Debra Hodges, Dawn Huggins, Coby Low, Terry Muthig, Richard Myers, Diane Neumann, Darlene Pluschau, George Shurter, Lindsay Vogelbach, and Derek Wilson.

Brocco Is Appointed '73 Campaign Head

Released from active duty in 1946 as a captain, Brocco was recalled to active duty for 17 months in 1951 and 1952, to serve in the Korean conflict. Brocco joined IBM in 1948 and has served in various administrative positions. He is currently assistant for manufacturing at the Kingston plant.

A Past President of the Kingston Lions Club, Brocco has been active in various community activities. Brocco has two children, a daughter Sharon Murphy and a son Alfred J. Jr., a junior at John A. Coleman High School.

The fifteen member agencies of the United Way of Ulster County are the Association for Retarded Children, Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Family Service Center, Gateway Industries, Girl Scouts, Jewish Community Center, Mental Health, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., USO, and Ulster County Blood Bank.

Brocco is a graduate of Saugerties High School, Officer Candidate School, Kessler Air Force Base Electronic School, Lowrey AFB Advanced Electronic School and various IBM educational courses. Enlisting in the regular Army in August 1940, Brocco was promoted to 2nd Lt. in 1943 and is a veteran of the South Pacific having

Explo Delegate

Walter Schaap, resident of Saugerties, was among nearly 100,000 delegates at the recent "Explo '72" conference in Dallas, at which Honorary Chairman Rev. Billy Graham and 144 other Christian leaders presented addresses. The conference theme was training in a Christian life, and a nationally organized series of follow-up conferences called "Explo '72 Comes To You" will carry the same theme to a number of cities across the nation.

Juris Degree Is Awarded

ANTHONY P. ARGULEWICZ

BOSTON, MASS. — CHARLES F. KAISER III of Ellenville was awarded the degree of Juris Doctor at the June commencement exercises at Suffolk University held at the Prudential Center in Boston.

Kaiser is a graduate of Ellenville Central School and American International College. He is the son of Atty. Charles F. Kaiser Jr. of 4 Linden Street, Ellenville and the late Eleanor H. Kaiser.

Two residents of Ulster County were awarded degrees at commencement exercises at Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.

ROBERT FRANCIS SERMIER of Main Street, Bloomington was awarded a Master of Business Administration degree and ROBERT DUGGAN of Woodland Valley, Phoenixia was awarded a Doctor of Laws degree.

Two Kingston students were awarded degrees at the 202nd commencement exercises at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H.

GEORGE C. BENZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Benz was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in English. A 1968 graduate of Mahwah High School, he received a cum laude degree with high distinction in his major field of study.

JINNE SUE NEWMAN of 53 Plymouth Avenue, Kingston was among 830 undergraduates receiving degrees from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. Miss Newman received a B.A. degree in Biology.

Two Ulster County residents were awarded degrees at commencement exercises at Monmouth College in New Jersey. FERN L. RUBIN of Spring Glen was awarded an Associate in Arts degree in Elementary Education and BARRY L. GRUBERG of Kingston received an Associate in Arts degree in General Education.

CHARLES J. LAY of Kingston received his B.A. degree from the University of South Florida during commencement exercises there.

GORDON TAYLOR of 42 Grove Street, Kingston was awarded his B.S. degree from Southern Connecticut State College.

Correction Grad at UCCC

STONE RIDGE — William Ritchie, who recently graduated with an Associate in Applied Science Degree from Ulster County Community College, is the first graduate of the College's Correction Administration program.

A lieutenant for the Department of Correction at the Eastern Correctional Facility at Napanoch, Ritchie attended UCCC as a part-time student.

He received his degree with distinction for scholastic achievement at the recent UCCC commencement.

"This is a significant first for our Correction Administration program," said Associate Professor Theodore Dietz, "and is just the start of the trained graduates we will supply to help serve the community."

Lt. Ritchie is a resident of Rocky Hill Road, Grahamsville. The Correction Administration program provides both preemployed training for students who intend to enter the field of correction and in-service training for presently employed correction officers who wish to extend their training. Graduates are able to qualify for careers in local, state and federal correction work.

State Program Is Defined By Official

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A strengthened state program of training for all firemen could be financed by revenues from the tax on fire-insurance premiums, says the head of the state's Office for Local Governments.

Sal J. Prezioso told the convention of the New York State Association of Fire Chiefs Wednesday that more training for firefighters is needed. His office already administers a fire training program, but it consists only of 14 courses for which the agency provides instructional materials.

Powers Attends Reunion of Jamboree Group

PORT EWEN

Life Scout Steven Powers of Troop 26 in Port Ewen attended the first annual reunion and dinner of his XIII World Jamboree troop recently. Troop 212 was formed of 40 scouts from eastern New York State under the leadership of Scoutmaster John Del Santo of Poughkeepsie and Assistant Scoutmasters Dennis Rudolphsen of Schenectady, William Fahr of Newburgh and George Kurosaka of Glens Falls.

The XIII World Jamboree, hosted by the Boy Scouts of Nippon last summer, combined an eight-day tour of Japan and a nine-day tent camp at Asagiri Heights on the northern slopes of Mount Fujiyama for 23,000 scouts from more than 100 countries. A typhoon flooded the site and the Japanese Army had to evacuate and house most of the scouts for three days. Upon return to camp, the Scouting Spirit prevailed over the water and mud so that the XIII World Jamboree is known "as the Jamboree that refused to die."

Scout Powers had the distinction of being one of four scouts chosen from Troop 212 to climb 12,388 foot Mount Fujiyama with Assistant Scoutmaster Rudolphsen. Those who made it all the way to the top obtained a special hiking staff called a "Fuji Stick." Later exposed to the drenching rains of the typhoon, his Fuji Stick warped so much it now resembles a bow.

The reunion, held at Valles Steak House in Colonie, was attended by the four adult leaders and 30 scouts with their parents, relatives, and friends — about 100 in all. Highlights of the event were the presentation of humorous awards to several members of Del Santos' Dingbats who achieved notoriety on the trip, and a display of slides showing the beauty and history of Japan, the aftermath of the typhoon, and the spectacle of thousands of boys and men of every race, creed, and color practicing world brotherhood through Scouting. A pleasant surprise was the distribution of a colorful, unique uniform patch and booklet especially commissioned by the Thomas Cook & Son travel agency to commemorate the journey half way around the world for 7,830 scouts from the United States.

As a result of showing his own slides locally to Troop 26, Pack 26, the Town of Esopus Lions Club, and Troops 42 and 58 of Red Hook, Scout Powers has earned the public speaking merit badge, and is now working on the photography merit badge.

Scout News

Girl Leaders At Luncheon

The Girl Scout Leaders of the Ulster and Hurley Neighborhoods held its annual spring luncheon at the Dock Side Restaurant.

The Neighborhood Chairman, Mrs. James Greeson, welcomed the 55 leaders and assistants and thanked everyone for making this a successful Girl Scout year. Mrs. Greeson presented the consultants of her service team with a token gift of thanks, who are as follows: Mrs. Frank Mongillo, Mrs. Richard Rioux, Mrs. Frank Spadafora, Mrs. Ronald Wolfeld, Mrs. Edward McLaughlin, Mrs. Alexander Polonsky and Mrs. Norman Lovitch.

A special award and trophy for Leader of the Year, was presented to Mrs. Jack Armstrong, for her outstanding service.

The following leaders received their five year pins: Mrs. Raymond Crispino, Mrs. Carol Klitzner, Mrs. Robert Gardner, Mrs. Jerry Hardman, Mrs. James Robinson and Mrs. Donald Iatridis. Ten year pins were given to Mrs. Robert Kalcinski and Mrs. Donald Sutherland. Mrs. Robert Klein was awarded a 15-year pin for her service in Girl Scouts.

Troop 150 Fetes Mothers

TOWN OF ULSTER

Girl Scout Troop 150 led by Mrs. Edward Englehardt gave a tea for their mothers recently at the Chambers School.

The program, which was well attended, included entertainment by the following girls: Lisa Brink, Mindy Langer and Sheila Beller on the piano, Beth Gallagher the violin, Eileen Olsen, Julie Burger and Connie Radell, flutes, Susan Houghtaling and Ellen Mariatti played clarinets. Silena DeCicco accompanied the girls on her guitar.

One year pins were presented and refreshments served. The final activity for the year was a picnic at Hidden Valley June 17.

Overlook Mountain Bill... Bell Seeking Another Way

By LYNN MULVANEY

WOODSTOCK
Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's veto of Assemblyman H. Clark Bell's bill to open Overlook Mountain in Woodstock to the public will not deter the Ulster County lawmaker from including the measure in next year's supplemental budget, if necessary, thereby bypassing another veto.

The bill passed both Houses of the Legislature this year and has been awaiting the governor's signature.

Denying that the veto of the measure by the governor was politically motivated, Bell pointed to the 35 bills he had up for Rockefeller's signature, explaining that the governor had signed all but three even though some were controversial. It had been suggested that the veto arose out of Bell's occasional criticism on the Rockefeller administration. In refusing to sign the bill, Rockefeller said it was "replete with internal inconsistencies, inadequate references and other technical difficulties and, completely overlooks the power of the Department of Environmental Conservation to acquire easements, sought in the bill out of existing appropriation balances if the easements are deemed appropriate and of sufficient priority in the total departmental program."

Bell found this segment of the veto unsatisfactory because, he said, "the governor in finding fault with the bill is actually finding fault with his own commissioner of environmental conservation, Dr. Henry Diamond, who supported the bill." All work in connection with the bill had been done by the commission and the Department of Environmental Conservation, he said.

Both Bell and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison plan to include the measure in next year's supplemental budget necessitating a veto of the entire budget by the governor if he insists on keeping Overlook closed.

Meanwhile, Overlook will not be open to the public this year.

The bill was the result of a chain of events set in motion when C. Powers Taylor of Hawthorne; Fred Mortenson of Yonkers and other members of the Be-No Lodge purchased considerable acreage on Overlook; formed a small hunting club and barricaded the access road up the mountain with a barbed wire fence and a padlocked gate in September, 1969.

Since the mountain had been a favorite picnic and hiking area since before the turn of the century, there were vociferous objections from science teachers, scouting groups and many others.

But the new owners remained adamant in the face of public outrage and in spite of pressure by the Department of Environmental Conservation which maintains a fire tower atop Overlook. They said that repeated vandalism of their cabin-lodges by trespassers was responsible for the decision to close the road off to the public and that only forest rangers would be provided with a key to the gate.

Bell's bill would have provided a non vehicular pedestrian easement which would provide access to state lands for all citizens without fear of trespassing over privately owned property.

Bell said that the legislation came only after months of effort to persuade the lodge to give free access to the public with proper safeguards and supervision against vandalism.

The problem, until now has been that the lodge's lands surround the state's holdings on Overlook.

Both Bell and Rolison said they felt that "state lands are for all citizens to enjoy and wherever these rights of enjoyment are impaired, legislative action must be sought for the general good."

Formal Appointment Made by Paltz Board

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
Dr. James Hickey was formerly appointed to the position of Superintendent of Schools of the New Paltz Central School District at the New Paltz Board of Education's meeting Monday night.

Hickey's selection had been announced last week. He replaces Frederick Dippel, who resigned in January. Dr. George Smith has been serving as acting supervising principal. Hickey's appointment is effective July 1, when the district formally changes from a supervising principal to a superintendent of schools as chief district officer.

Though the 1972-73 budget has been passed, some people want the district to find more money for certain of the bud-get's programs. A petition was presented with approximately 270 names requesting the district reallocate the funds for field trips, library personnel, and drug education. The board will look into the matter.

Letters from Louise Tamburello and teacher George Campbell were received, both requesting a full-time man for the district's drug program. Campbell, a member of the Ulster County Drug Commission, writing as the head of the district's Joint Action Committee on Drug Abuse, expressed his regret at the departure of Richard Stanulwich. Stanulwich headed the district's drug program this year. Campbell listed a number of Stanulwich's accomplishments, including the breaking up of at least two drug rings and the keeping of a number of students in school.

Some changes have been made in the school hours of the several schools in the district to take full advantage of the computerized bus routes. The major change will be in the middle school, which will now be in session from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. instead of 8:10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Day Care Center Listed as Agency

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK
Northern Dutchess Day Care Center, Inc. of Red Hook has been admitted as a participating agency of the United Way of Dutchess County, Inc. according to J. David Schmidt, chairman of the North Group for this fall's United Way fund raising drive.

The admission of the Center brings the number of United Way agencies to 31 in Dutchess County.

Schmidt, who is coordinating the drive in Rhinebeck, Red Hook, Milan, and Pine Plains said that Red Hook chairman Nicholas M. Russo took the first steps toward securing admission for the Center by encouraging officers of the organization to make a presentation to the United Way's admissions committee.

After hearing the presentation, made by Center Director Mrs. Virginia Roder, Board President Mrs. John A. Smithers, and Treasurer John W. Kelly, the committee voted unanimously to admit the Center.

In making his recommendation to the Board, Chairman William Knauss praised the Center for "providing out-reaching services that do not traditionally fall under the heading of day care."

Mrs. Roder reported that the center currently services 17 children from a geographical area that ranges from the Columbia line to Staatsburg. She said the Center has a waiting list of nine children and that public health nurses in the Red Hook-Rhinebeck area have determined there are 33 additional children who are in "dire circumstances" and in need of day care services.

Projected in the future are possible satellite centers and an after school program for children up to 12 years of age.

The Center, which receives no governmental aid or aid from any foundation, hopes to use United Way dollars to pay for these programs.

A philosopher wrote, "When all you do about work is think about it, it seems terribly disagreeable. But the odd thing is, once you get started work doesn't seem half bad, and it's a lot more satisfying than you dreamed possible when just thinking about it. In fact, doing it so much better and comforting than just contemplating it none of us should ever torture ourselves with hesitation, but we should plunge in and enjoy it." ## Vows Are Exchanged

Susan Elizabeth Ellsworth of 135 Fairview Avenue, Kingston, became the bride of Arnold T. Shienvold of 105 Lounsbery Place, Kingston, on Sunday, June 11 at Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue, Kingston. Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John Parks, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ellsworth of Port Ewen and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Ellsworth of Kingston. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shienvold of Kingston.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Leonard J. Ellsworth, the bride wore a gown which she had designed and made herself. The gown was in the empire style with a cowl neckline, bishop sleeves and a lace bodice accented with seed pearls. It featured a detachable train. Her silk illusion fingertip veil was attached to a headpiece of organza flowers. She carried a bouquet of orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Frances Shienvold of Albany, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Attendants were Miss Denise Lyons, Miss Teri Marcus, Mrs. Arnee Decker, sister of the bride, all of Kingston; Mrs. Russell Smith, Worcester; and Miss Cathy Doyle, Westbury.

For the bridal party, the bride chose a color scheme of yellow and blue. Gowns were fashioned of voile with white cotton lace midriff yoke and collar. They wore fresh flower headpieces and carried bouquets of marguerite daisies and baby's breath.

Miss Kim Natoli and Miss Deneen Natoli, cousins of the bride, served as flower girls. Their yellow dotted Swiss gowns were designed and made by the bride. They carried nosegays of white marguerite daisies and aqua baby's breath.

Michael Shienvold of Albany was best man for his brother. Ushers were Stanley Hollander, cousin of the bridegroom, Winchester, Mass.; Edward Ellsworth of Port Ewen and Charles Ellsworth of Kingston, both brothers of the bride; Jeffrey Boxer of Ellenville; Roger Theil, Kingston; and Robert Strugate, Cherry Hill, N.J.

A reception for 110 guests was given at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and State University College at Oneonta, is a Home Economics teacher employed at Singer Sewing Center. She is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary fraternity.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Colgate University where he was a Psychology major, plans to continue graduate work in September.

When they return from their wedding trip to Wildwood, N. J., they will reside at Cleveler Lake.

Worden-Miller

Julia Mae Worden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Worden of RD 3, Kingston, and Leo J. Miller Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Miller Sr. of 233 West Chestnut Street, Kingston, were married at Rondout Valley Methodist Church in Kripplush.

The Rev. Wallace Randall officiated at the double ring ceremony on Saturday, June 10. Mrs. Barbara Lottridge provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a daron polyester organza gown styled with pearls and scalloped Chantilly lace. A Juliet cap held her two-tiered silk illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and ivy.

Bonnie Worden of Kingston was maid of honor for her cousin. Attendants were Verna Worden, Kingston, cousin of the bride, and Mary Lou Bennett, Kingston. Jean Worden, sister of the bride, Kingston, was junior bridesmaid. Vicki Hasenflue, cousin of the bride, Kingston, and June Worden, sister of the bride, Kingston, were flower girls.

For her bridal party, the bride selected chiffon gowns accented with embroidered flowers and outlined with Venise lace.

William Bloom of Saugerties was best man. Ushers were Gerry Buboltz and Larry Delaney, both of Kingston. Junior usher was James Stenson of Kingston.

A reception for 157 guests was given at American Legion Hall in Stone Ridge.

The bride, a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School, is employed at Rotron, Inc. in Shokan. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, Ulster County Community College, and State University College at New Paltz, is employed also at Rotron, Inc., Shokan.

Mary Murray Exchanges Marriage Vows

Mary Ellen Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Murray Sr. of Troy, became the bride of Russell Gary Melton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Melton of Kingston, Saturday, June 10 at Rensselaer Newman Foundation Chapel Cultural Center. The Rev. Gary Gelfenbien officiated at the ceremony.

Jack Molrn, organist, accompanied David Stoll who sang traditional wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Marie Kluckesky was maid of honor. Attendants were Mrs. Terrance Sullivan, Miss Mary Ann E. Mariani, and Miss Andrea Fennelly.

Robert Melton, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Lawrence M. Murray Jr., brother of the bride; Angus MacDonald Thayer, Lt. (j.g.) U.S. Navy; Jerry Murray, cousin of the bride.

The bride, a graduate of Catholic Central High School, is attending Hudson Valley Community College. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, received his AA degree from HVCC where he was a member of Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity. He was awarded his BA degree in Economics at State University of New York at Plattsburg where he was a member of Sigma Tau Sigma fraternity. He is employed as a financial analyst for Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., Albany.

THEATRE REVIEW

DOROTHY A. NAREL

Hyde Park Has Hit! 1776 Is Great Musical

The story of 1776, the new musical offered by Peter O'Rourke, producer at Hyde Park Playhouse, is just about the finest production seen to date. Applause for Mr. O'Rourke for successfully signing this particular play for his theatre.

The brilliant cast starring Don Perkins as a forceful, unrelenting supporter of independence, John Adams, makes two long acts seem like one quick hour of entertainment. The acting is superior, the music great, lyrics so marvelous, the play should be seen by everyone, particularly children. It's a great history lesson let alone a great show.

The story of 1776 deals with the signing of the Declaration of Independence and how it came to be written or almost not written. Intertwined amidst the arguing and political debates of the delegates are such great songs as PIDDLE, TWIDDLE AND RESOLVE, the fantastic production number LEES OF VIRGINIA (so the play just for this alone) and the moving numbers MOMMA LOOK SHARP AND IS ANYBODY THERE?

The play, which recently closed on Broadway after a four-year run, won both the New York Drama Critics Award and the Tony award for Best Musical.

First nighters in Hyde Park Playhouse endorsed the author's appraisal of New York politics — even in those early days. Politicians are politicians — 1776 or 1972.

Hyde Park's production has other built-in assets also. Several of the stars appeared in the original production. Mr. Perkins played the title role in the National Touring Company; Bruce McKay as Ben Franklin, appeared in the National Touring Company production as well as on Broadway.

I recommend this play highly. Performances will continue on stage through Friday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday at 6 and 9:30 p.m. For future reference there's also a 2:45 matinee on Thursdays.

Next week Van Johnson, who made such a hit last year at Hyde Park Playhouse, will be appearing in Help Stamp Out Marriage. It will open on June 26 and play through July 1.

Extension Aides Study Nutrition Program

Several Ulster County aides and Cooperative Extension agents were among the 400 persons working in the expanded Nutrition Education Program sponsored by county Cooperative Extension Associations and the New York State College of Human Ecology. The statewide conference took place June 19-20 at Cornell University in Ithaca. Local persons in attendance included Phyllis Barlow, agent; Linda Salmonsah, Arthur Smith, Betty Groner, Selma Wouda, June Astrowsky, Phyllis Burhous, Iris Rodriquez, Mary Jo Brightly, Anna Whaley. The conference was held to acquaint the aides with resources of the university. It also gave aides, agents, faculty, and administrators an opportunity to discuss together issues facing families in New York State. David C. Knapp, dean of the N.Y. State College of Human Ecology, Edward H. Smith, director of Cooperative Extension in New York State, and Mrs. Bettie Lee Yerka, program chairman for ENEP spoke at the banquet Monday evening in Noyes Student Center.

On Tuesday, a panel of faculty members from the College of Human Ecology moderated by Prof. Marjorie B. Washbon, of the Dept. of Human Nutrition and Food, discussed their efforts to improve the well-being of New York State residents, and the implications of this mission of the College for aides and families with whom they work.

Small group discussions, with college staff and selected cooperative extension agents serving as leaders and resource people, followed.

Topics discussed were: employment of women, family planning and health services, nutrition, consumer conflicts, housing problems, financial management, child care, adolescent problems, education and community action strategies.

Supported by special federal funding, the Expanded Nutrition Education Program aims to help families with limited resources improve their knowledge and skills in selecting, buying and preparing foods.

West Hurley P-TA Buys School Gifts

The Antique and Craft Show sponsored by West Hurley PTA recently was a financial success enabling the PTA to purchase special gifts for the children of West Hurley School.

In an attempt to give a gift that children in all grades will enjoy, the PTA has selected Audio Cassette Libraries from the Teaching Resources Library.

Included in this library is Oscar Brand's "American Folksong Archives" which has 20 cassettes of recorded songs and tales from Colony Days to World War II. For fantasy, there are E. B. White's "Stuart Little" and "Charlotte's Web."

For the younger children, the PTA chose from the "Tell Me a Story Library" the adventures of "Jimmy and Joe," which includes cassettes and film strips telling of the adventures of two seven-year old boys.

These cassettes and records can be used for story-hours or individual use. The PTA hopes they will stimulate interest and imagination in the child and will encourage him to read more for extra learning value.

The PTA also purchased four rugs to be used in the first grade classrooms for the children's reading corner.

These gifts were selected to entice and motivate young listeners into becoming young book-lovers.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE
SOME DOLLS ARE BORN
ARTISTS!

Dear Heloise:
If you have the problem of how to dress a "teenage doll" for a special gift, why not try my solution?

Make her an artist!
Sew up a colorful smock using a dress pattern with long sleeves.

For the tam, cut a circle from a scrap of black velvet and gather onto a band fitting the doll's head.

Then, from cardboard cut a palette to fit her hand. And here is where Dad can get into the act.

He can construct a miniature easel from dowels, bamboo sticks or ice cream sticks, and tiny "canvases" can be cut from heavy cardboard.

After all the canvases have been filled with blobs of color, she might have her own "one-doll" exhibit.

GRANNY

Dear Heloise:
In baking cookies recently, I needed brown sugar, only to find the brown sugar hard as a rock.

Because I was in a hurry, I grabbed the cheese grater and went to work. In no time, I had the necessary amount and could finish the cookies. This was much quicker and neater than many other methods of softening brown sugar.

KAREN FISHKIN

Dear Heloise:
I'm a young housewife and have quite a way to go before I learn all the tricks of the trade. That's why I enjoy your column so much.

But I think I've discovered something... Though my neighbor kept her children clean, they always had somewhat the appearance of being ragamuffins. And I couldn't understand why.

Then one day she gave me a batch of clothes her children had outgrown. Every single thing needed mending somewhere. That was the reason!

This fact is helping me to remember it does make a difference if I'm using a pin instead of the button, or that the ripped seam should be sewed.

I know it's hard to find time, but try to do a little each day, maybe while you're watching TV.

Dear Abby

War's Over! Parents Do Raise, Rear Kids

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy your stuff. When I attended Tulane University, I told my professor that I was raised in Shreveport, La.

He said, "You RAISE hogs and REAR children."

You mentioned that you were raised in a small town. Tell me, Abby, were you RAISED or REARED?

Love mit kisses,
HENRY

DEAR HENRY: In "The Careful Writer," Theodore M. Bernstein (whom many consider the Supreme Court of American journalism) put it this way: "At one time, a war raged and some skirmishes are still going on against the use of 'RAISE' to describe what parents do to children. The battle cry was, 'You raise pigs, but you rear children.' However, in this country, at least, the war is over; we raise both pigs and children, and some parents will testify that you can't always tell the difference." Right on, MR. B!

DEAR ABBY: We recently had a death in our family and a local politician who was running for office called up and asked if he could be a pallbearer. He took the members of the family by surprise they said yes. We had already selected the pallbearers but we were so upset at the time we weren't thinking.

This politician was the first to sign the guest register, and he went around shaking hands and slapping everyone on the back like it was a campaign rally. He sure got in the public eye at that funeral which is the only reason he wanted to be a pallbearer. He hardly even knew the deceased or any of the family.

When it was all over we realized how we had been used.

What should this politician been told when he called up and offered to be a pallbearer?

USED

DEAR USED: "Thank you, but the pallbearers have already been selected." (P.S. I'm curious. How did he come out in the election?)

DEAR ABBY: My parents are planning to send my ten-year-old brother to Europe this summer to visit his grandfather, whom the boy has never seen. Mother says it will be a "good experience" for him. But I'm not so sure.

I think to send a rather immature ten-year-old boy thousands of miles from home, alone, to a strange country to be with a strange man who speaks another language (which my brother has never heard) will hurt him psychologically. I am 23

Tiny Tips

Cream, Please?

Would you like some cream in your morning cup of acetone, methyl acetate, furan, diacetyl, butanol, methyl-furan, methylbutanol, isoprene, caffeine, oils, methanol, acetaldehyde, methyl formate, ethanol, dimethyl sulfide and propionaldehyde? Or would you rather just skip the coffee and drink the cream?

One Hour's Work

Today, one hour's work will buy 20 per cent more milk, 25 per cent more pork, 20 per cent more beef, 13 per cent more potatoes and 25 per cent more peas for the consumer than it did in the late 1950's.

Lazy Luncheon Menu

Cottage Open-Face Sandwiches are a great lazy summer day luncheon menu idea. In a bowl combine one and one-half cups cottage cheese, one-fourth cup grated carrot, one tablespoon each sliced green onion and chopped parsley and one-fourth teaspoon garlic salt; chill. Spread pumpnickel bread with butter; cover each slice with lettuce, salami and tomato slices. Top each sandwich with about one-fourth cup cottage cheese mixture. (Makes six sandwiches.)

Asparagus Sauce

Bring out all of the flavor of that freshly picked asparagus with Asparagus A La Lemon Butter sauce. In a small saucepan melt one-fourth cup (one-half stick) of butter and add one and one-half tablespoons of lemon juice. Pour over asparagus. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Serves six vegetable lovers.

and I know it would bother me. My brother isn't to keen on it.

This really troubles me, Abby. After all how can a 90-year-old man take proper care of a young boy thru sign language? (Grandfather speaks no English.)

Am I foolish to worry?

DESPERATE SISTER

DEAR DESPERATE: If your 90-year-old grandfather speaks no English and lives alone, I can understand why the lad isn't "too keen" on it. If there are others in the family (or in the community) with whom he will be associating, it might be a good experience for him. Don't become "desperate" unless all the facts are in.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING"

FBI my eye! It's unwise for a girl to keep company with a man who is so mysterious. Tell the fellow that even FBI agents have friends, families, neighbors, co-workers, and clergymen — someone who can vouch for their characters. (P.S. The FBI office in your city can tell you if he is employed by them. And if he's an "undercover man," he shouldn't have told you that he was.)

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

(© 1972 Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. The writer simply signs herself "Mrs. L. E." If she will send me her full name and address I will be happy to send her a copy of Emily Post's Etiquette.

Dear Mrs. Post: Three of us, who unfortunately are widows, would very much appreciate your comments on what we consider social blunders of inconsiderate hosts and hostesses.

Recently we attended some wedding receptions, were thrilled to be invited, but later were sorry we went.

The first festivity was a lovely wedding dinner where we were given cards with table numbers. We found ourselves with three other widows, all in their late seventies, an old man eighty-two years old, and an elderly spinster, all complete strangers. We are in our middle and late forties and felt nothing in common with them.

At the next wedding dinner we were again seated with the same group. This table was at the far end of the dining hall, almost out of sight of the bridal table.

We are now convinced that as widows we are considered misfits, that we are looked upon as social obligations, and that we should not accept any other invitations of this type.

1. Are we too sensitive, or should we be grateful just to be invited?

2. Would it have been improper to be separated and seated with couples we know?

3. As widows, are we expected to stay away from married people or couples at social functions?

Your answer will be greatly appreciated and we are extremely anxious to know whether you consider us unjust complainers.

Mrs. L.E.

Dear Mrs. E.: Why married people should think that widows or divorcees are a separate clan, who do not enjoy the company of married couples or males, is something I cannot understand — or tolerate. You and the other widows should not have been isolated at a table by yourselves, or have been expected to entertain or to be entertained by others old enough to be your grand parents. You should have been seated with your own contemporaries and your particular friends, without regard to your marital status.

MRS. WILLIAM LONGYEAR of New Paltz celebrated her birthday on June 13. She was 90 years old. The event was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Barringer, 166 Henry Street, Kingston. The widow of the late William Longyear, a well known photographer who died in 1947, she has a son, Kenneth of Poughkeepsie. Many friends and relatives attended the festive occasion. Gifts and congratulatory messages were received from attending guests and from relatives and friends in Connecticut and Florida. (Freeman photo by Haines)

FLIPPING OVER YOU — Astros catcher Larry Howard flips Met Dave Marshall (18) as he attempts to steal home in the eighth inning of Astrodome game Wednesday. Marshall was called out on the attempt. Mets won, 5-4. (UPI)

Gaylord Rubs It In

Gaylord Perry didn't have much Wednesday night... probably because he gave it to Bill Rigney the night before.

When the Cleveland Indians arrived in Minnesota on Tuesday, Twins Manager Rigney found a tube of sticky ointment on his desk, courtesy of Perry. Rigney had accused the veteran right-hander of doctoring the baseball when Perry beat the Twins and Bert Blyleven 7-1 two weeks ago.

So Perry rubbed it in again by beating the Twins—and Blyleven—4-2 Wednesday night. Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit took over undisputed possession of first place in the East Division by downing Oakland while California topped Baltimore 6-3. The Chicago White Sox trounced Milwaukee 9-3 and Boston out-slugged Texas 10-9 in 11 innings. Kansas City and New York were rained out.

Perry, who has been accused of putting everything from saliva to greasy kid stuff on the baseball, didn't have his best stuff but still joined Chicago's Wilbur Wood and Detroit's Mickey Lolich as the major leagues' only 11-game winners.

"It was a tough nine innings," he said. "I struggled all the way. I don't know what the trouble was, but I do know I have to have a good defense or I have trouble winning."

Shortstop Frank Duffy made two fine catches of line drives and third baseman Graig Nettles bailed Perry out of a sticky situation in the ninth. With one run already in, two on and two out, Nettles knocked down a smash by Harmon Killebrew and turned it into a game-ending forceout.

Ray Fosse homered for the Indians in the second inning and Duffy followed with a triple and scored on Del Unser's sacrifice fly. The Indians got the decisive runs in the eighth against reliever Dave LaRoche when Chris Chambliss walked and Nettles homered.

Tom Timmerman pitched Detroit into sole possession of first place by checking Oakland on five hits, including Mike Epstein's eighth-inning homer.

The Tigers wrapped it up in the top of the eighth against Ken Holtzman when Timmerman got an infield hit. Tony Taylor lashed his second double of the game and Al Kaline was purposely passed. Bill Freehan then doubled to right-center and all three runners scored for a 5-1 lead when center fielder Reggie Jackson bobbled the ball.

Dodgers—Giants... A Thing of the Past

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — No man is an island, but in one respect Chub Feeney comes close.

He is the only person among all those I spoke with who claims that classic old rivalry between the Giants and Dodgers hasn't lost a thing. He says it's as intense as it ever was back in those days when the clubs operated in New York and Brooklyn.

In those days, Feeney was the Giants' vice president and first assistant to his uncle, Horace Stoneham.

These days he's president of the National League, and league presidents have always made public statements in support of their clubs since time immemorial but Feeney insists that isn't so in this case.

While everybody else agrees the rivalry between the Giants and the Dodgers is like the old gray mare, not anything what it used to be, Feeney goes the other way.

"I don't think anything ever happened to that rivalry. I'd have to say it's within 2 percent as strong as it has ever been," he insists.

"That feeling is still there, among the fans and the players," says Feeney. "You still have that tension when the two clubs get together. I mean it. I think people in the East are away from it so they get the idea the rivalry has diminished, but actually it hasn't."

Chub Feeney, feeling the way he does, amounts to something like a minority of one.

The Giants-Dodgers' rivalry, one which sometimes reached epic proportions in both Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds, certainly doesn't come equipped with all the steam, all the fire, it had before the clubs moved out to California 14 years ago.

For those who like to sit there and soak themselves in nostalgia, the Giants and Dodgers played the first major league game ever on the west coast here in the old Seals Stadium, which is a parking lot now, and Reuben Gomez shut out the Dodgers, 8-0, in April of 1958.

Dick O'Connor of the Palo Alto Times, who covered that ball game that day, says the predominant feeling among the 22,000 fans in the stands that day wasn't so much that they were sitting in on any great rivalry as it was that they still couldn't believe major league baseball had really come to the coast.

Those 22,000 fans in Seals Stadium represented capacity. To give you some idea of what has happened to the rivalry, only 10,098 showed up in 45,000-capacity Candlestick Park for the last game played between the Giants and Dodgers here three weeks ago.

Among those who had an opportunity to watch the rivalry diminish first hand is Willie Mays, who played with the Giants both here and in New York. With the Mets now, he can be more objective about the whole thing and he says the fans made the rivalry what it was, not the players.

"The Giants fans in New York and Dodger fans in Brooklyn sort of grew up with the players," Willie points out. "You can't compare them with the fans in San Francisco and in Los Angeles in that sense."

"With those old Giants and Dodger fans, it was blood, and there was no in between at all. As a player you could even sense it when you were out there on the field. Those fans weren't kidding either. I remember one game in which I hit two homers to beat the Dodgers in Brooklyn. It was a night game and when I came out to get my car in the parking lot, it had four flat tires. I wasn't gonna stand around there asking any questions. I just caught a ride home with a friend."

Mays can't ever remember anything amusing about those old Giants-Dodgers games no matter how hard he tries.

"There was nothing funny about those games, not to me, anyway," he says. "Of course I knew all their guys, Jackie, Campy, Newk, but every time Newcombe pitched he'd knock me down. Then I'd run into him on Seventh Avenue someplace after the game and we'd have a soda together."

Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' board chairman, thinks the rivalry between his club and the Giants still is "active," although he concedes "we're in a little bit of a valley right now."

"You have to remember," he says, "ours has always been a keen organizational rivalry. When we were in Brooklyn, they were in New York; when we had a club in Fort Worth, they had one in Dallas; when we had one in St. Paul, they had one in Minneapolis. I feel the team going into Oakland (the A's) diluted our rivalry somewhat but I think that possibly may be solved some day. I can remember when the Penn-Cornell football game was a big thing. It isn't so much anymore. Times change, I guess."

Another factor, points out Jim Cone, a baseball fan and a waiter at one of the local restaurants, is the great number of opportunities apart from going out to a ball game available to people in this city.

"Here in San Francisco, we have all manner of water sports to compete with baseball," says Cone. "I'm a golf addict, and we have 50 golf courses within a day's drive so you can pretty much figure out for yourself where I go on my day off. I'm still a Giant fan though. I lived in New York years ago and rooted for them then. I can remember many times in the '30's when I had occasion to wait until next year."

Of all the observations on the old Dodgers-Giants' rivalry, Willie Mays inevitably comes up with the best one. "I think," he says, "we're just talking about memories."

The Idea Hit Harrelson At Just The Right Time

HOUSTON (UPI)—Bud Harrelson of the New York Mets was 0-for-13 and hitting .209 when an idea hit him in the dugout Wednesday night.

There was Rusty Staub, who owns a perfect swing, unable to use it because he was out of the lineup with a hand injury.

"Lend me your swing while you're gone," Harrelson asked Staub, a red-haired Cajun who doesn't give anything away without careful thought, finally decided to let Harrelson have the swing, but only for two days. Harrelson was so desperate he was agreeable to anything.

Harrelson broke his slump his first official time at bat with a run-scoring single. It came in the fifth climax a two-run rally on the way to the Mets' 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

Duffy Dyer, the Met with the hot bat, started the rally with a double and scored on a triple by Jim Fregosi. Harrelson's hit scored Fregosi to give Jerry Kosman a 2-0 lead.

Dave Marshall, starting only his second game all season and hitting .356, hit his first homer of the season in the sixth, but Houston came back to tie it 3-3 entering the eighth.

Tommie Agee, another Met in a slump, doubled with one out, coming off a 9-for-20 and a 2-for-40 streak. Ken Boswell angled to center, but Cesar Cedeno deceived Agee into holding up and he had to stop at third.

Then Marshall did what Houston wanted—hit a double play grounder at Tommy Helms that would have ended the inning. But Helms fumbled it and everybody was safe with Agee scoring to make it 4-3.

"It hit the top of my glove," Helms said. "It had topspin on it and got away. I just missed it. No excuses."

Boswell moved to second on the error and scored what proved to be the winning run on John Milner's single to right to knock out Tom Griffin, the loser, 2-2.

Kosman, 4-3, went out for a pinch-hitter in the inning and Tug McGraw finished up to record his 12th save. He gave up his first homer of the season, a ninth inning blast by Doug Rader.

"I had to maintain my 'Hairbreath Harry' reputation," McGraw said.

The loss knocked Houston out of first place in the National League West, a half game behind Cincinnati as the Astros open a four-game series in Cincinnati tonight. Dave Roberts, 6-3, will start against Wayne Simpson, 4-1. The Mets return home to play the St. Louis Cardinals, sending Gary Gentry, 3-5, against Reggie Cleveland, 6-4.

Murphy Dark Horse In Western Open

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP)—He hasn't won this season, finished tied for 63rd last week but, paradoxically, may be one of the top contenders in the $150,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

That's Bob Murphy, who beat only six players—one of them an amateur—in last week's United States Open Championship in the wind and cold at Pebble Beach, Calif.

"I just can't fight that cold," Murphy said. "I never have been able to play in the cold. Last week my back tightened up on me and that was it."

He opened with a 79, then fell back to make the cut, then improved with closing rounds of 83 and 75.

"But, really, I'm playing real good right now," Murphy said before teeing off today, in the first round of the 72-hole chase on the 6,716-yard, par 71 Sunset Ridge Country Club Course.

Last week it was just my back. With some hot weather here—and I hope it changes and gets hot—I should be okay."

The 29-year old Murphy, who went to the University of Florida on a baseball scholarship, has before shifting to golf at a relatively late age, hasn't won since 1970, but has played some of the best golf of his career this season.

He lost in a playoff and has been ninth or better 10 times this season—including three in a row before the National Open. He's won $78,157.

"I was in a little slump there for awhile," Murphy said, chewing on his inevitable cigar. "Then I got it sorted out again."

Murphy, whose three career victories all have come on courses much like this one, was one of the favorites for the $30,000 first prize along with Australian Bruce Crampton, the defending title holder.

Some other top candidates included $100,000 winners Tom Weiskopf and George Archer, d veterans Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Chi-Chi Rodriguez.

Jack Nicklaus, who won the U.S. Open last weekend, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player, are not competing. Lee Trevino withdrew because of exhaustion and the lingering effects of a recent illness.

Radiant Wins Pony Race

WALLKILL, N.Y. (AP)—Radiant, driven by Rennie Holbert of Walden, won first place in the 200 Race Time event on the Sundown Pony Club card at the B&L Track, Firefly, H. Bennett, Walkkill, was runnerup, followed by Ginger Snap, L. Powell, Walkkill, third.

Buckman's Pigeon Only Finisher in 550-Mile Race

MT. MARION, N.Y. (AP)—You think the miserable weather of the past several days affected only people and golf courses—and not the birds and the bees?

Well listen to this. On Saturday, June 17, 105 racing pigeons representing the hopes of 10 members of the Kingston Racing Pigeon Club were released at 6:15 a.m. from Salisbury, N.C., 550 air miles distant from Mt. Marion.

It was to have been the last of the current series of weekend marathons for most of the club members. But, due to the cloud and rain front, it turned out to be almost a complete disaster.

There were no returns on Saturday. There were no returns on Sunday. Finally, at 7:15 p.m. on Monday, the third day, one lone pigeon broke through the clouds and came home to roost. It was a pigeon owned by John Buckman of Kingston.

This was a great thrill and big victory for Buckman, who had a highly successful series. The uncontested win enabled him to clinch two major club awards—Long Average Speed and Overall Average Speed. He will receive the trophies at the end of the season.

Buckman has been a member of the Kingston Racing Pigeon Club for 15 years and has consistently ranked among the winners. At the beginning of the current series, he decided to spend more time with his birds and the result was his finest season ever.

QUADRUPLE OWNER—Gary Davidson, president and cofounder of the World Hockey Association (L) and Nick J. Mileti, owner of the 12th WHA franchise. Mileti also owns the Indians of the American League East, the Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association and the Barons of the National Hockey League. Mileti's purchase of the WHA franchise was announced Tuesday but not explained in detail until Wednesday. (UPI)

Top Dogs At Dutchess

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (AP)—The best dogs from around the country come to Dutchess County Fairgrounds Saturday for the annual Mid-Hudson Kennel Club Show.

One thousand four hundred forty-five dogs representing 108 breeds and varieties will parade before the judges when the show begins at 9 a.m. Competition is expected to continue until late afternoon in 12 rings. Tents will be erected for shade or protection from inclement weather.

The largest entry for one breed is for Weimaraners with 120. There is also a futurity entry of 67 for the Eastern Bench Futurity of the Weimaraner Club of America. This show is the annual specialty show of the Hudson Valley Weimaraner Club.

Other breeds with major entries are: Poodles, 69; German Shorthaired Pointers, 51; Afghan Hounds, 50; Doberman Pinschers, 49; German Shepherd Dogs, 43; and Irish Setters, 40.

Judging Best in Show will be John P. Murphy of Allendale, N. J. He will also judge the Sporting group.

Louis P. Murr of Spring Valley will judge Hounds and Terriers. Mrs. Virginia Keekler of Greenville, Ohio, will make the decision on the Working group.

Mrs. Haywood R. Hartley of Richmond, Va., will judge the Toy group. The Non-Sporting group will be judged by A. Peter Knop of Weston, Conn.

Owners Fall Back On 'Zipper Clause'

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board hearing into charges that the National Football League refuses to bargain with players on fines and artificial turf safety entered its third day today with owners presenting their arguments.

Theodore Kheel, NFL attorney, testified for 90 minutes Wednesday explaining certain areas of the league's contract with the National Football League Players Association.

Kheel was to continue his testimony today and be cross-examined by NFLPA attorneys.

The NLRB issued a complaint against NFL owners for refusing to bargain on the questions, and ordered them to return $20,000 in fines levied against players who left the bench to join on-field fights during the 1971 season. The owners asked for a hearing on the matter.

Melvin Welles, trial examiner, is not expected to make a decision in the case for at least a month after testimony is completed today or Friday.

The NFLPA completed its testimony late Wednesday with Alan Page, the Minnesota Vikings defensive tackle who was the NFL's most valuable player in 1971, testifying that the players were unaware of the rule that prohibits them from leaving the bench.

Edward R. Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, earlier testified that NFL owners have told him repeatedly that the players have no rights to negotiate under their current contract.

He said that several owners claim the existence of a so-called "zipper" clause stating the contract represents the complete and final agreement of all bargainable subjects for duration of the contract.

But Garvey said this clause was modified to say that "any change in current practices affecting employment conditions of the players shall be negotiated in good faith."

Virginia Bows

LONDON (UPI)—Virginia Wade, Britain's only Wimbledon hope, slumped out of the Rothman's London Grass Court championships at Queen's Club Wednesday.

Miss Wade lost 7-5, 6-4 to American Wightman Cup player Valerie Zeigenfuss.

Miss Wade hardly appeared to get into the match—probably because she was still cross after hearing of her tough quarter of the Wimbledon draw which starts with a match against Australian Karen Krantzcke.

Miss Wade always had an uphill battle. After losing the opening set she seldom looked confident in the second. Once Miss Zeigenfuss, of San Diego, Calif., had broken for 4-3 in was virtually the end for the British player.

Serving for victory, Miss Zeigenfuss hit an obvious fault which was not called by the umpire.

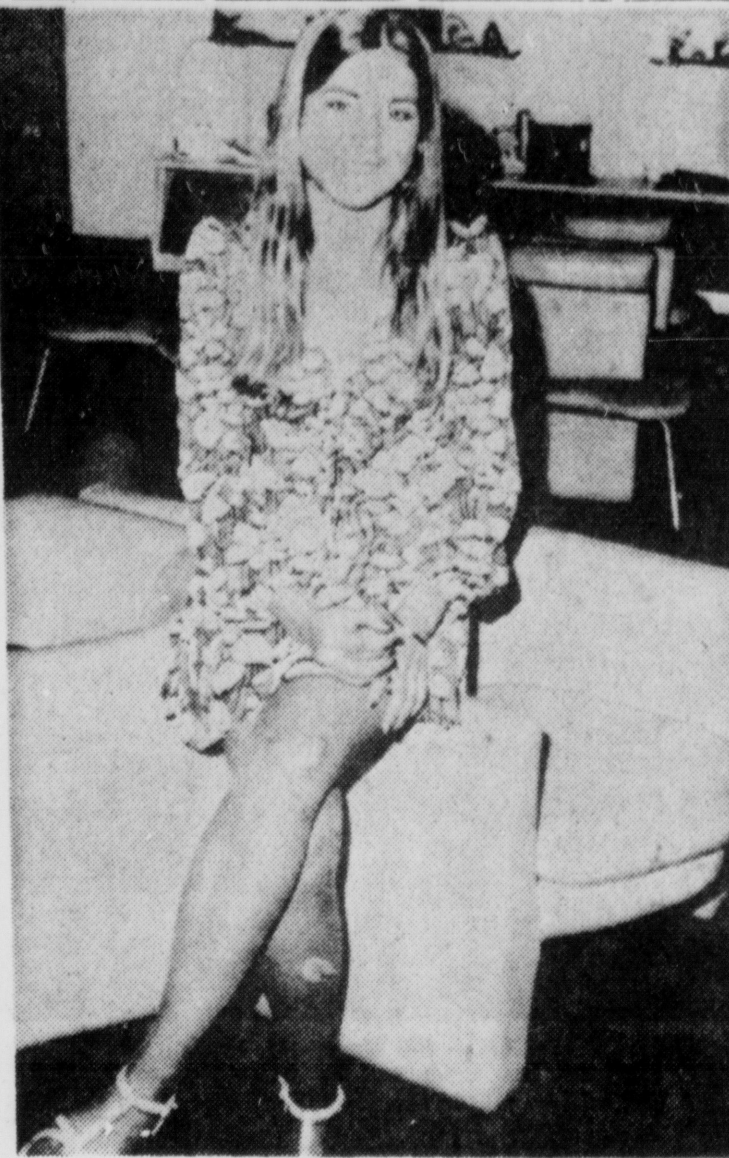

As the umpire was awarding the match to the American,

Miss Wade disputed the point and the umpire agreed to Miss Zeigenfuss having two more serves. But Miss Wade still did not agree.

"We have never played two before when you've made a mistake why should we now," she told the umpire, and held out her hand to congratulate the American on her victory.

Miss Zeigenfuss, who believed her serve was in, agreed to play two more and the match finally ended when Miss Wade hit a forehand into the net.

Wimbledon favorite Stan Smith took time to settle down in his big hitting match with the Australian Ray Keldie. Smith finally won 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 but never looked comfortable until leading 5-3 in the second set.

RELAXING — Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., relaxes at a pre-Wimbledon party in Piccadilly Thursday. Miss Evert, 17, is seeded No. 4 in the women's singles lineup. She will face Valerie Zeigenfuss, of San Diego, Calif., in her first round match. (UPI)

Legion Nips Vols

KINGSTON Legion to score and give his team a 2-1 Babe Ruth victory. Two Vols' errors in the bottom of the fifth inning enabled Ken Foster of the American Legion to walk to start the fifth.

Schmedake Shares Ties In Katrine Trap Shooting

ST. REMY Sawchuck shared the third spot in skeet with .840, Ellsworth Jr. fired an .800 for fifth position. In junior trap, Mike Mauro was first as usual with .920. Nick Mauro, whose round was highlighted by 25 straight hits, and Bob Schmedake came in even in trap with .960. Schmedake later tied with Frank Lauffer in skeet, both connecting for an .880 score.

Grover Ellsworth Jr.'s .933 was runnerup margin in trap. Dick Brandt and Grover Ellsworth Sr. notched scores of .920, followed by John Johansen with .867, George Carlson with .810, Jim Pirro with .787, Mike Pirro with .780, and John Rydzewski with .776.

Quarry Cut

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Jerry Quarry suffered a slight cut over his left eye in his training camp Thursday but it didn't require a coagulant. Quarry is training for a 12-round bout with Muhammad Ali next Tuesday night.

Gail DeCicco Raps 219-567

KINGSTON Gail DeCicco slammed career first highs of 203, 219 and 567 series to claim first place in the Tuesday Night Mixed Bowling League.

Tom DeMicco led the men's department with 562 and Bill Hart had a 230.

Team high scores were recorded by Stephens Rest Home 681 and Tom DeCicco Excavators 1932.

Then the Vols put together the pair of misuses which sent Foster around and home. The Legion took a 1-0 first inning lead when Dan Mahoney doubled and pitcher Dan Brown hit a batter and walked two more to force in a run.

The Vols tied it in the fourth as Rick Griggs singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a hit by Howard Williams.

Foster struck out 12 and allowed four hits to get the win. Brown fanned 13 and yielded on two hits, but took the loss after the unearned run gave the Legion the advantage.

Vizvary Joins Soccer Staff

ESOPUS George Vizvary, the highly successful soccer coach at Ulster County Community College, will be a member of the 10-man coaching staff during Soccer Week (Aug. 20-26) at the Hudson Valley Sports Camp. Boys 9-18 will be accepted.

The camp director is Lou Gallo, varsity soccer coach at Rye High School. Gallo's teams have won both Section 1, Class C championships and Class C and D Open Championships in 1969 and 1970.

Rye High has been undefeated in three years of CWL play and has a three-year record of 49 wins, 2 losses and 3 ties. In 1969, Gallo was voted Westchester County Coach of the Year.

Joe Pallone, the highly successful U.S. Military Academy coach at West Point is also on the staff. Pallone's teams have compiled an amazing record of 160 wins, 53 losses and 25 ties. In 6 NCAA tournaments, his teams have reached the semifinals four times.

Vizvary is a former member of the Hungarian National Team and former captain of the Kingston Sport Club, which had a 50-game winning streak and won three consecutive Upstate New York championships.

Kite's 65 Tops NCAA Field By Three in First Round

CAPE CORAL, Fla. (UPI)—Tom Kite led the defending champion University of Texas golfers into a first-day lead Wednesday in the NCAA golf championship with a seven-under-par 65 for the day's low score.

Kite, who played the back nine first, got hot as he made the turn, wrapping two eagles around a birdie on holes No. 1, 2 and 3. His performance outshone that of teammate Ben Crenshaw, the defending individual champion, who shot a one-under 71 to land in a tie for fourth with six other golfers. Tied for second at 68 were Howard Twitty of Arizona State and Max Castro of the University of Miami.

Five players were at 70 —Len Lott, Georgia; Chris Cole, Oklahoma State; Bill Rogers, Houston; and Ken Peyre-Ferry, University of Maryland.

Tied at one-under 71 were Jack Sommers, New Mexico; Jimmy Ellis, Georgia Southern; Bill Schumaker, Miami of Ohio; Crenshaw, Texas; Mark Triggs, Southern Methodist; Lon Hinkle, San Diego State; and Buddy Marucci, Maryland.

O&A Sluggers Lead in White

SAUGERTIES Orville & Arlene's needed a win over the Fire Dept. to take over first place in Saugerties Softball League's White Division. Just to make sure, O & A poured it on and came away with a four-inning "stopper," 13-3.

In the Blue Division, Mahogany Ridge topped C & L Aquarium, 8-2.

Bill Fischer doubled and homered, Gordon Freiligh went three-for-three with two runs batted in, and both Mouse Wolven and Jerry Jones lined a single and a double as Orville & Arlene's came up with its big victory.

Ken Swart laced a single and a double in a losing cause.

C & L became the first five-game loser in Saugerties softball this season as Mahogany jumped out to a 7-0 lead after two innings and cruised from there.

Bud Miller's seventh inning homer spoiled Steve Thornton's shutout bid.

Dennie Sheehan, Charlie Hudson, and Benny Benz had two hits for the winners as did Clark Hackett for the losers.

Herdegen Pairings

KINGSTON It will be the field chasing the leader—Harvey Bostic—when the 22nd annual Ulster County Amateur golf championship resumes Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at Wiltwyck Country Club.

The defending champion, who is seeking his fourth title carries a five-stroke lead into the third round. He toured Twaalfskill and Woodstock in 2-over par 142 to open up a 5-stroke gap between him and Bill Odeneal of New Paltz and J. Michael Bruhn of Rondout.

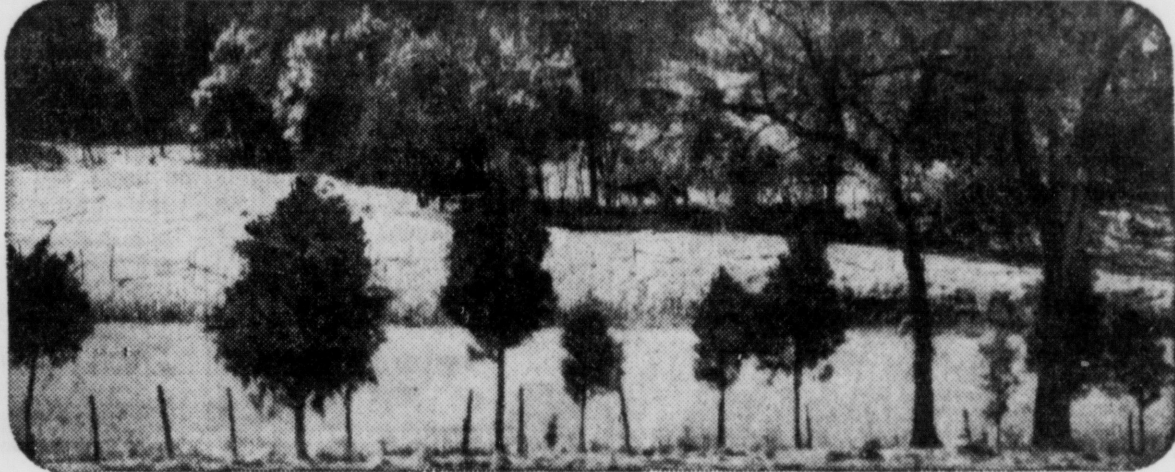

Tournament observers think Bostic has a shot at the all-time winning margin of 15 strokes set by Bill Van Aken, when he established the tournament record of 275 in the 1958 tournament.

The Saturday pairings:
SATURDAY, JUNE 24
(Wiltwyck Country Club)

8:30 — H. Van Aken (151)	Mangi (155)	Pesavento (158)
8:37 — Brown (156)	Decker (159)	Hall (163)
8:44 — Cosenza (156)	L. Bruhn (161)	Muller (169)
8:51 — Weller (152)	Siegel (153)	Smith (151)
9:01 — Tattara (153)	Hoyt (159)
9:08 — Buchanan (161)	Alford (151)
9:15 — Kolin (154)	Carnright (152)	Sheppard (163)
9:22 — B. Van Aken (152)	Buoymaster (152)	Stauffer (160)
9:29 — M. Bruhn (147)	Barbel (149)	J. Bostic (150)
9:36 — Odeneal (147)	Kaufman (154)	Parnett (150)
9:44 — H. Bostic (142)	Beaver (148)	Modica (157)

Pairings for final round according to scores.

If you have a little imagination, come look at our lake.

and our lodge.

and our swimming pools and tennis courts.

Here? Here. But don't bring your boat and water-skis — yet. Because our big lake looks exactly like the picture. Not exactly boat-ready, but plenty exciting for those who can see an opportunity while it's just starting to take shape . . .

This is a PREVIEW INVITATION. For neighbors and families in Albany, Schenectady and Troy areas only. It brings you a look at Sleepy Hollow Lake at the beginning of construction — and the whole story of a new way to enjoy weekends or even year 'round living.

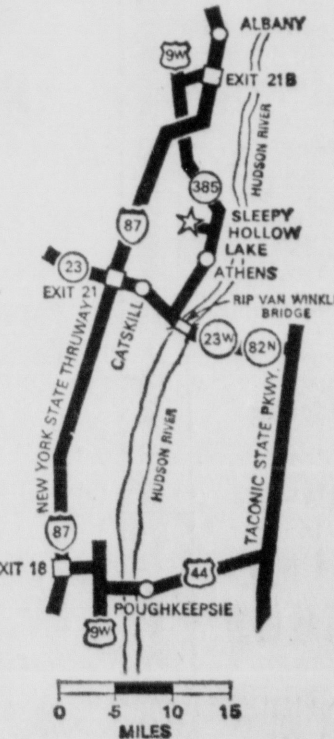

Sleepy Hollow Lake. The private resort. Resort vacations are fun. They make you feel far away, even when you're close to home. They offer variety — all the activities you like — to make sure the whole family has a good time. Sleepy Hollow Lake will be like that, too.

A statement and Offering Statement has been filed with the Department of State of the State of New York. The filing does not constitute approval of the sale or lease or offer for sale or lease by the Department of State or any officer thereof or that the Department of State has in any way passed upon the merits of such offering. A copy of the Offering Statement is available, upon request, from the subdivider. (NYA-72-702.)

But here you'll actually own part of the action — all the tennis, horseback riding, camping, fishing, swimming, boating and winter activities you please — to enjoy every weekend, even every day — all for the reasonable cost of property ownership.

The biggest private man-made recreation lake ever offered for sale in New York. That's just one interesting fact about the new life we're building. But there's so much more to tell and show you, an ad just isn't enough. Instead, we've arranged a special Preview Tour to give you the complete inside story before we let the rest of the world know what's going on.

Sleepy Hollow Lake, 25 miles from Albany, in Athens. That's another interesting fact. Come hear all the rest of them. This weekend, bring your family to Sleepy Hollow Lake.

Open every day, 9 a.m. to Dark

See a beautiful place get better.

Budget Drive In Highland

HIGHLAND
A "Pass-the-Budget" committee of Board of Education members and interested citizens of the Highland Central School district is making a concentrated drive to assure passage of the district's 1972-73 budget when it comes up for a vote June 29.

Daniel Alfonso, committee chairman, said at a recent information meeting, that one of the main efforts of the group would be to get as many residents as possible to register. Only 905 turned out May 2 when the district voted down a proposed $3,465,800 budget.

The budget coming up on June 29 is for $3,478,474. Board members said the higher figure reflects the new salary figures for the district's teachers, who have been negotiating a new contract with the board for several months. Alfonso said that a settlement is "99 per cent complete" and should be signed within a week.

The committee's efforts include posters being distributed throughout the town, newspaper articles, and flyers containing information about the budget that will be distributed to every home in the district on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Today is the last chance for voters to register and be eligible to vote. Registrations will be accepted in the lobby of the middle school room 3-9 p.m.

Alfonso also said the committee would have 20 baby-sitters and at least 10 cars available on June 29 to assist voters. The numbers to call for these services will be on the flyer being distributed this weekend, he said.

Your Horoscope

Friday, June 23

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The a.m. finds you able to plan what you want to do and how you can do it with the best methods available. However, make a point to use the afternoon and evening to make changes that are necessary if such a plan of action is to become a working reality. You see the future pretty clearly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are well able to handle obligations during a.m. and make better plans for the future. Tonight you can do whatever is necessary to reach some important personal aim. Use a different system. Become more successful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Reach a better understanding with partners in a.m., then in p.m. you can carry through with plans made. Use more modern methods and get far better results. Think along more constructive lines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get those duties behind you early and gain the respect of others who are important in your life. Work harmoniously with others and get right results. Evening brings more advantages into your life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) During spare time, Bigwigs will give you backing in a.m. do those things that please you the most. Evening is best to keep the promises you have made to others. Improving your appearance is vital in a.m., too.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show ingenuity in the handling of your affairs during the morning, but later get out to whatever is of a social nature. Make good plans in a.m., also. Doing whatever pleases your mate is wise tonight.

VIGRO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Carry through with financial affairs in a positive and clever way in a.m. and keep other appointments in the afternoon that help you get ahead, also. Get advice from an expert in business. Relax at home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning is best for planning the future better, and then you can handle those money matters wisely and well. Improve appearance before going out socially in p.m. Forget shop then, concentrate on fund.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Confidentially plan some new course of action in a.m., and put it in motion. Then the social events become a delightful experience for you.

you desire. Contact them early. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Morning is the best time to go after the advice you want from a good pal. Then make outstanding plans for the future. You are capable of accomplishing far more in the days ahead. Forget fears.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact that influential person who will know how you can solve some problem you have and give you the support you need. First take care of that credit matter, and then realize your finest personal aims. Take it easy tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You first have to study those new ideas well before you take them to bigwigs for the backing you want for them. Iron out kinks in them. Get all the facts and figures that are most necessary. Grow.

— WHY WE SAY —

NOBEL PRIZE
DYNAMITE: The Swedish inventor of dynamite, Alfred Nobel, established a prize in his will for persons who worked for the encouragement of humanity. Nobel maintained that dynamite would be a force for peace. His estate was left for the Nobel Prize.

BELLWETHER
A SHEEP: A bellwether is used to denote something that leads the way in politics or in product merchandising. The word refers to the encephalic sheep which carries a bell around its neck and thereby leads the herd.

WILD-GOOSE CHASE
DIFFICULT: The English graylag, an undomesticated goose, was considered one of the hardest to catch. Hunters would often come back empty-handed. That is why something unlikely to be found is called a "wild-goose chase."

Summer Comedies on ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC appears to be giving the viewers the summer of the common man. The network launched a pair of new situation comedies Wednesday night, one about the adventures of the superintendent of a crumbling apartment house and the other recounting the goings-on among the customers of a neighborhood bar and grill.

"The Super," first of the pair, presents Joe Girelli, played by Richard Castellano, working out the problem of his teen-age son who was suspended from school for cutting classes. Joe, patient with his complaining tenants, is persuaded to let his kid quit school and start learning how to be a superintendent.

The acting was pretty good, but the laughs were few, often far-fetched—or maybe viewers think it is funny for a father to clap his son on the head every time he becomes angry at him.

The building's assortment of tenants may stand the show in good stead in later episodes. A lady marches into the basement and hisses in Joe's face to demonstrate what her broken radiator is doing. An aggressive cop talks in police jargon when threatening Joe about a missing tile in his bathroom.

The Archie Bunker influence was present in the show—undeniably since Bob Reiner, who plays Archie's son-in-law, is one of the writers. But where the scripts of "All in the Family" generate some sympathy and affection for the central characters, there is little loveable about the Girellis. Castellano tried to give Joe some human dimensions but he needed better material.

"The Corner Bar" is also set in a deteriorating section of New York City. The setup lies somewhere between Jackie Gleason's Joe the bartender and "Duffy's Tavern," but this one needs polishing.

Gabe Dell plays the owner of "Grant's Tomb," who is anxious to attract a better class of customer. The customers and help were pretty predictable; the comedy Jewish waiter, the black and sarcastic short order cook, a drunk, a couple of truck drivers, a professional peacenik and a Tiny Tim type.

There was a boob of a congressman running for office and his opponent, a women's lib lady. It touched a lot of bases, used up plenty of one-liners and finally wound up with a brawl, probably because there didn't seem any other way to end it.

Alan King, on his own time a very funny stand up comedian, is executive producer of this and tossed in a lot of ethnic and minority jokes. All this to the comedy Jewish waiter, the black and sarcastic short order much it is losing its shock value.

Guard Kills Six, Wounds Six and Self

Police Seek Motive for Shootings

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Police say they are baffled as they search for a motive for the shooting rampage by a gunman who entered an office building armed with two sawed-off rifles and methodically pumped bullets into any man he encountered. Six men died, six were wounded.

Officials identified the gunman as Edwin C. Grace, 33, a uniformed off-duty guard for a security agency. He was hospitalized with what police said were self-inflicted gunshot wounds in the neck and head. Doctors said he had a good chance of pulling through.

A witness said the gunman kept reloading the .22-caliber rifles and that nearly 100 bullets were fired as he ordered women to get out of his way. A worker in an employment office in the building, Heritage House, James Ashen, 24, of Blackwood, said:

"This guy walked in. He was a complete stranger. I never saw him before and he shot my boss in the head and he hit the floor. He shot the guy sitting in front of me a couple of times in the back. The other three of us grabbed chairs and crowded into the corner of a small room, begging him not to shoot us, but he kept firing and he kept saying, 'Don't move, don't move.' He was a maniac."

Three of the wounded men were in critical condition and a seventh man was injured seriously when he leaped through a window attempting to avoid the gunman. Victims interviewed by police said they did not know Grace and had not seen him previously.

The gunfire erupted about 3 p.m., and police said the gunman terrorized the building for several minutes. About 40 policemen surrounded it after being alerted by a wounded man who escaped.

Public Safety Director Wallace Lapeters said the officers fired tear gas canisters into the building and that several policemen entered, but that no shots were exchanged with the gunman.

After the shooting stopped the gunman was carried from the building along with other wounded persons, and it was not until hospital workers found bullets in his pocket that police realized who he was.

Several women who encountered the gunman told police he ordered them to get out of the way. Six women scrambled to safety from the GMA Co. office, and another seven who confronted the gunman as they cowered in a basement also were unharmed.

Carried from the building on a stretcher was Grace, a Pinkerton guard from the Trenton, N.J., office of the detective agency.

Grace underwent surgery at Cherry Hill Hospital. Because of his condition, police were unable to interrogate him.

Personal Diplomacy Display Put on by President Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is putting on an unusual display of high-level personal diplomacy by jetting top aides to far-away places around the globe.

Friday is the next homecoming for security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, returning from his latest nonsecret Peking trip. Kissinger returned June 12 from Tokyo, after flying in June 1 from the Moscow summit.

Saturday is take-off day for Secretary of State William P. Rogers on a 16-day nine-nation swing around the world from Australia through East Europe. Rogers stopped in parts of West Europe on his way back from the Moscow parley.

At the airport the same day will be Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, heading south for a fortnight of talks with financial leaders in Argentina, Peru, Venezuela and Brazil.

These same Latin American former Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally, who is now in Asia on a globe-circling Nixon assignment. Connally, whose itinerary will include 18 countries by latest count, has been traveling since June 6.

On July 2, Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Edward E. David Jr., will lead a delegation to Moscow to work out scientific projects with the Russians.

Following David to the Soviet capital will be Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson. His mission: to lay groundwork for expanding U.S.-Soviet trade.

Nixon critics are portraying this prominent to-and-froing, all announced by the White House, as unnecessary razzle-dazzle aimed at keeping Nixon's foreign-policy efforts in the limelight as the presidential campaign heats up.

With Peking and Moscow spectacles behind him, they suggest, the President wants to keep the public mindful of his dramatic foreign moves since he himself has no further overseas journey planned before November.

Administration supporters paint a different picture, lauding each of the V.I.P. missions as meritorious in its own right.

And they say that the direct, personal contact with foreign leaders adds a valuable dimension to what can be accomplished by more traditional lower-level diplomacy.

The facts of the current jet-tripping abroad by Washington notables do not appear to link into any single diplomatic master plan.

The initiative for Kissinger's visit to Peking, according to administration sources, came from the Chinese. Periodic visits by senior U.S. officials had been agreed on during Nixon's parley there last February.

Rogers' journey starts with the annual meeting of the South Asia Treaty Organization, one of the usual commitments for the secretary of state who already has logged 262,494 miles overseas since taking office 3½ years ago.

His East European stops at Belgrade, Bucharest and Budapest—the first ever by a secretary of state in Hungary—have been long proposed as part of the administration's undertaking to improve relations with the Communist East.

Burns, the White House says, was invited to visit Argentina by the head of the central bank there and felt it would be useful to go to some other Latin nations while on the trip.

Connally's month-long global tour was announced as devoted primarily to current economic issues. However, the former Treasury chief also will be in a position to discuss with foreign leaders international developments including Nixon's Peking and Moscow sessions, the announcement said.

The David and Peterson journeys to Moscow are follow-ups to Nixon's agreements with Soviet leaders on expanding a wide range of dealings between the two countries.

IRA, British Troops Involved in Battle

BELFAST (UPI)—Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen fought a three-hour gun battle with British troops in Belfast and killed a soldier in Londonderry Wednesday despite discussions earlier in the day between IRA chiefs and political leaders on a possible cease-fire.

An army spokesman said the gun battle in Belfast's Andersonstown Roman Catholic Housing Estate tapered off into intermittent sniping early today. At the height of the fighting Wednesday night, the spokesman said, troops saw two gunmen fall and watched them being dragged off by other gunmen.

The IRA claimed responsibility for the death Wednesday of Kerry McCarthy, 19, a British soldier shot in the chest by a sniper as he stood guard at the Victoria Police Station in Londonderry. He was the 333rd person to die in nearly three years of sectarian violence in the province.

Police in Dungannon and troops in Londonderry came under fire from snipers early today, spokesmen said. There were no reports of casualties, although soldiers who returned fire from an army observation post in Londonderry's Rosemount area said they may have hit one of the gunmen.

South of Belfast Wednesday night, troops closed a section of the M1 Expressway after several vehicles were hijacked at gunpoint. The army gave no further details.

The violence followed a meeting earlier in the day in the Irish Republic town of Lifford, close to the Ulster border, between chiefs of the militant Provisional wing of the IRA and members of Northern Ireland's main Catholic opposition party, the Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP).

North Viets Armor, Infantry Break Defense

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese armor and infantrymen broke through South Vietnam's northernmost defense line above Hue at dawn Thursday, but field reports said the main thrust of the attack was stopped with help from U.S. jets.

Military sources said 16 North Vietnamese armored vehicles were knocked out, including at least nine tanks, on both sides of the My Chanh River which forms the northern defense line 20 to 25 miles north of Hue.

Initial reports from the Saigon command said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and eight were wounded.

Military sources in the field said at least six tanks crossed the river, and fighting was reported northwest and southwest of a Roman Catholic church that is now a South Vietnamese command post at My Chanh. The area was heavily shelled during the night.

U.S. jets knocked out three North Vietnamese 130mm guns, which have a range of 17 miles, west of My Chanh with laser-guided bombs, military sources said. But North Vietnamese shells hit an ammunition dump at Camp Evans, a big South Vietnamese base camp six miles southeast of My Chanh, and the ammunition was still exploding at midmorning.

Another 14 tanks were claimed Tuesday and Wednesday by South Vietnamese marines who are making a sweep to the east of the paratroopers in the coastal region of Quang Tri province known as the Street Without Joy.

Two U.S. planes were shot down on the western side of Quang Tri province, on the Laotian border, but both pilots were rescued.

The U.S. Command said U.S. jets flew more than 270 strikes against North Vietnam Wednesday, and Air Force F4 Phantom shot down a MIG21 inter-ceptor in a dogfight 50 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The Command said American bombers gave a heavy pounding to the Haiphong region, wrecking supply depots, surface-to-air missile assembly areas, SAM launching sites, anti-aircraft artillery batteries and bridges.

The Viet Cong announced today that it had released hundreds of South Vietnamese troops captured during the fall of Quang Tri and "helped them return to their homes."

On the southern front, the U.S. Command reported that six Americans have been killed since Monday in the stalled drive to reopen Highway 13 to An Loc, the provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon that the North Vietnamese tried in vain to capture.

The dead Americans included two advisers to the South Vietnamese force that has been unable to break through to An Loc and four helicopter crewmen. Two U.S. helicopter gunships were shot down on Tuesday and one on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the U.S. command's weekly casualty summary today reported eight Americans killed in action last week, 18 dead of nonhostile causes and 11 missing. Another 27 were wounded.

The total of deaths due to nonhostile causes was the highest in the 12 weeks of the North Vietnamese offensive. It was believed that most of them died in air crashes not directly attributable to enemy action.

The South Vietnamese command reported 3,133 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, the lowest number claimed by the government in six weeks, and said government losses were 74 missing.

The summary brought announced casualties from the start of the North Vietnamese offensive through last Saturday to 121 Americans killed in action, 92 missing in action, 85 dead from nonhostile causes, 9 missing not as a result of hostile action, and 450 wounded; 9,159 South Vietnamese killed and 30,656 wounded, and 48,515 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,790 killed in action, 303,145 wounded, 10,212 dead from nonhostile causes, 134 missing from nonhostile causes, and 1,609 missing in action or captured.

South Vietnamese—146,505 killed in action, 376,611 wounded, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—852,075 killed.

Hornell Flood Aftermath...
...I'm Totally Wiped Out'

Editor's Note: Welland Green, his wife and child were made homeless when their home, on the banks of the Canisteo Creek in Hornell, was destroyed by flood waters Wednesday.

By WELLAND GREEN (as told to UPI)

HORNELL, N.Y. (UPI)—I'm just totally wiped out. We moved here about 17 years ago and put up a 20-thousand-dollar three-bedroom ranch. And for the past 17 years I have been on my knees begging the State of New York, Steuben County, the village here, plus the Town of Hornellsville to put up some kind of a wall. I never got any satisfaction from any one.

About five this morning the rains which started last night were bad enough and the creek started to rise. Apparently there was a cloudburst up the valley. Well the creek got bankful and my wife and child had to get out. I was at work at the time.

By eight in the morning the water had come over the creek bank, eroding about 30 feet of land adjacent to my home. It then went under the house and eroded the foundation. Three of the front rooms were just carried away.

I'm just totally wiped out. The home is impossible to live in again and it will have to be destroyed. They're carting my appliances away now in a truck. They were found sitting in two or three feet of water in what used to be my carport.

I don't know what I can do now. You can't get flood insurance because the cost is so prohibitive. We'd like to stay here if I can get some help financially. But I have no land left over there. The lot was about 80 by 100 and now 60 per cent of it is gone. The creek which used to be about 20 feet wide is now closer to 200 feet. No one would ever buy that property again.

You know even whole trees came down the creek and went right through the wall and two rooms.

Eight or nine years ago the ice came over the banks in the springtime and came right up to my back door, but never touched it. I even took pictures and showed them to some men who came around from the state. But even those pictures are gone now — with the house.

There was nothing more than ordinary dirt on the bank where the creek bends. This gets the full force of the water. This March it overflowed again, but no one, including the state, could decide who had jurisdiction over the creek.

This is a nice area — a new development with a lot of nice homes. I sure hope someone does something to reinforce those banks so this can't happen again. Maybe it'll help someone. It's already too late for me.
